Big Bomber Force Sows Mines Across Nazi U-Boat Areas

Wilhelmshaven Attacked—Daylight Sweep Over Continent Extensive

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Large R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. forces of bombers sowed a pattern of mines across Hitler's U-boat training waters in the Baltic and his supply routes to Russia last night. The big-scale operation was coupled with a diversionary bomber attack on the Wilhelmshaven naval base.

The mine-laying was carried out by heavyweights, Halifaxes and Wellingtons, on a large scale, particularly in the Baltic Sea, the Air Ministry announced. Almost as an afterthought, it added: "Wilhelmshaven also was bombed."

Canadians in the R.A.F. were included in the force that attacked Wilhelmshaven and airmen of the R.C.A.F. bomber group were engaged in the mine-laying operations "on a very large scale."

British Mustangs destroyed an enemy bomber over the North Sea this afternoon and two German fighters were downed in the Channel early tonight.

EXTENSIVE SWEEPS DURING DAY

The Air Ministry announced tonight that British and American fighters had carried out extensive sweeps during the day against Axis transport systems in Northern France, Belgium and Holland at a cost of two United States planes.

A small patrol vessel was destroyed by Whirlwind bombers, and Mustangs on offensive patrol accounted for the enemy bomber downed in the North Sea.

The Air Ministry news service said that during the last two nights the R.A.F. laid more mines than were normally sowed in any whole month and that in Wednesday night's operations some planes flew 1,500 miles to the Baltic and back through intermittent cloud and thunder storms.

The Germans announced eighteen bombers were shot down in all, four over the occupied western district, while the Air Ministry officially announced the loss of twenty-three of their own bombers during the night.

The Air Ministry was unusually terse in giving details of the night's operations, but this is part of the strategy of mine-laying. The loss of twenty-three bombers indicated the force involved was comparable to those on some recent factory-wrecking raids.

Four Run for Leadership Of Liberals

Showing More Militant Spirit

TORONTO, April 29 (CP).—The Ontario Liberal Convention tonight heard a call for a more militant attitude on the part of the organization across Canada and prepared to elect a leader in the Ontario field.

As the first day of the gathering ended, four men were actively campaigning for the leadership which will be decided tomorrow. They are Premier Gordon Conant; Harry Nixon, M.P.P. for Brant and former Provincial Secretary; Hon. T. McQuesten, Minister of Highways; and Arthur Roebuck, former Attorney-General for Ontario and now a member of the Federal House.

Former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, who resigned last October, did not make an appearance at today's gathering.

Indication of a more militant spirit in the party came from two sources, Pensions Minister Mackenzie, and Jean T. Richard, of Ottawa, co-chairman of the convention and president of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association.

"We have permitted our national organization to disband but the time has come when the voice of Liberalism must again be heard," said Mr. Mackenzie as he addressed the convention banquet tonight.

At the opening sitting in the morning Mr. Richard said the Liberal Party was the only party which had neglected organization during the war and should stop neglecting it.

Mr. Mackenzie said leaders of other parties had been stumping the country while Liberal leaders were engaged in stern tasks of carrying on the war, unable to bid for popularity by fostering grievances.

To Intern All Former Soldiers

Nazis Give Order Affecting Dutch

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Germany plans to return all former Dutch soldiers, some 400,000 men, to war prison camps in the near future because of "particular difficulties which justify the measure," the Berlin radio said tonight.

All members of The Netherlands armed forces who were freed following their internment during the German occupation of Holland in May, 1940, have been ordered to "report" to the Nazi occupation authorities.

The announcement recalled to Netherlands circles in London that a similar order a year ago for some 2,000 officers and professional soldiers to report was quickly followed by transportation of the entire group to Germany. All were accused of "hostile actions against Germany." Authoritative reports here said these soldiers have since been transferred to prison camps in German-occupied Poland.

"The trick used by the Germans last year is likely to be repeated," one Netherlands source said tonight.

STRONG DEFENCES ALONG COAST

The announcement came on top of a series of German propaganda broadcasts claiming that invasion defences of unprecedented strength have been built along the coast of the Lowlands, and it was thought that the move against the former soldiers was linked with these preparations.

It was recalled, too, that last May when the first 2,000 were reimprisoned, Gen. Friedrich Christiansen, commander of German forces in Holland, had declared:

"Should it appear in the future that members of the former Netherlands fighting forces are playing a part in hostile actions against Germany, the measure now taken will be extended to reserve officers and regular non-commissioned officers."

Today's announcement went even beyond that threat to include common soldiers as well.

Anti-Nazi resistance has increased in The Netherlands. This resistance has taken the form of pot-shots at leading Dutch Nazis, sabotage, bombings and widespread passive non-co-operation aimed at obstructing German administrative measures.

SENATOR ILL

BETHESDA, Md., April 29 (AP).—Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican, California), seventy-six, is "seriously ill" at the Naval Medical Centre here, attendants said today. Pending further diagnosis of the senator's case, the attendants said it was a "bad cold" and declined to comment further. He was admitted to the hospital Wednesday.

Maj.-Gen. Salmon Dead In English Plane Mishap

Commander of Canadian Infantry Division Killed—Lt.-Col. Finlay Also Fatally Hurt

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—Death of Maj.-Gen. H. L. N. Salmon, of Toronto, forty-nine, commander of a Canadian infantry division overseas, in an airplane accident in England today was announced by defence headquarters late tonight.

Lt.-Col. C. F. J. Finlay, twenty-eight, of the Canadian Army overseas, was killed in the same accident. Mrs. Finlay and their young son live in St. Thomas, Ont. Gen. Salmon's wife lives in Toronto.

The accident occurred over Southwest England. No details were immediately available as to how it happened.

General Harry Leonard Nowell Salmon, M.C., was a widely-experienced permanent force officer. He was promoted from the rank of brigadier and appointed to command an overseas division last August.

He saw service in two wars, serving in the first Great War with the 28th Battalion, as a junior officer from 1915 to 1918 and being twice wounded. In the present war, while officer commanding the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, he took his battalion to France and back in 1940.

The battalion went to France at the same time as other Canadian units, sent just before the collapse of France before the German advance. The units were recalled almost immediately when the French collapse became imminent.

BROUGHT DOWN ENEMY PLANE

On the return from France, under fire from coast artillery and dive bombers as the unit embarked, machine gunners of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment were credited with being the first Canadian troops to bring down an enemy airplane.

General Salmon was born February 9, 1894, in Winnipeg. He was educated at St. John's College in Winnipeg and his army experience

Roosevelt Will Act

Showdown at Hand In Coal Strike

WASHINGTON, April 29 (CP).—A historic wartime showdown between President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis was at hand tonight.

Determined to halt a soft coal strike that threatens to cripple the entire industrial machine of the United States, the President today set 10 a.m. Saturday as the deadline for some 77,000 striking coal miners to return to work.

Mr. Roosevelt served notice that he will use all his powers as commander-in-chief "to protect the national interest" if the workers are still away from their jobs when the deadline is reached.

Lewis, the United Mine Workers' leader, preserved silence. The 77,000 miners showed no tendency to return to work, and one of their local leaders said "we won't go back without a contract unless Lewis says so."

MANY COURSES OPEN TO ROOSEVELT

What the President will do if the strikes continue beyond the Saturday deadline was not stated, but informed officials said many courses are open to him. They include:

Martial law in the coal fields, with suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and jury trial; use of troops to protect miners willing to work; assignment of troops to work in the mines; reclassification of miners under selective service to make them liable for the draft, an order denying them work in any war industry—or some less drastic measure such as a further appeal to public opinion, or to the miners themselves over the head of Lewis.

Some Washington observers saw the possibility that Roosevelt may by-pass Lewis and appeal directly to the rank and file if Lewis remains adamant.

Martial law is viewed as an extreme possibility that would be resorted to only in the event of violent demonstrations in the min-

Moscow Calls Litvinoff for Consultation

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff has been called to Moscow for consultation and will leave within the next few days, a Soviet Embassy's spokesman said tonight.

It was understood Litvinoff's instructions to return to the Soviet capital for conferences with Premier Joseph Stalin and other officials has no connection with the recent rupture of Soviet-Polish relations.

Official and diplomatic quarters, however, said there was keen interest in the Ambassador's plans to return at this particular time. It was pointed out that, aside from the critical questions raised by the Polish-Russian break, other serious problems of Anglo-Soviet-American collaboration might well figure in the report he will make to his government.

The Ambassador's conferences in Moscow may have an important bearing on the possibility of a meeting between President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin for a frank exchange of views.

It was understood the idea of a Roosevelt-Stalin conference has not been abandoned in Washington, and recent developments—including the Russo-Polish crisis—have emphasized the desirability of such a meeting.

Earl of Athlone To View Plants

SEATTLE, April 29 (AP).—Mayor William F. Devin's office said today that trips to Olympia, Bremerton and through Seattle war industries had been arranged for the Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of Athlone, who is scheduled to arrive here Monday evening.

The Governor-General and his party will be luncheon guests of Governor Arthur B. Langlie at Olympia Tuesday and will witness troop training at Fort Lewis. The party will visit the Bremerton Navy Yard on return trip here and war industries will be visited Wednesday. The Governor-General and Princess Alice will make a public appearance Wednesday noon in Seattle's Victory Square.

The party will leave Thursday for Portland.

Allied Bombers In Strong Raid On Enemy Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 30 (Friday) (AP).—Four-motored bombers executed a strong morning raid Thursday on the Japanese seaplane base on the island of Amboina, Netherlands East Indies.

The bombloads started fires and explosions among the barracks and hangars at Kalong, near the island's chief port of Amboina. Despite strong anti-aircraft fire and attempted interception by fifteen Japanese Zeros, all the bombers returned. Two of the Zeros were listed as probably destroyed and a third as damaged.

Fires also were started by medium bombers in a raid on the village of Kolseer in the Kai Islands.

Off Jamdena Island in the Tanimbar group, medium bombers attacked an enemy lugger and left it sinking.

A four-engined Allied bomber started fires at Madang, New Guinea. Below there the oft-bombed Saidor sector was bombed.

A heavy bomber also attacked the waterfront at Finschhafen.

JAPANESE SURROUNDED

CHUNGKING, April 29 (AP).—The Chinese Command announced today that more than half the Japanese troops who had been surrounded at points west of the Taiheng Mountains, which the invader had been attacking with a force initially numbering 40,000, have been annihilated. Fighting east of the mountains is continuing.

PAY CUT TO $42,546

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has taken a voluntary pay cut of 58 per cent which, a company statement today said, would leave his 1943 net compensation, after Federal taxes, at $42,546, compared with $90,527 in 1942 and $163,608 in 1941.

Dominion's Export Business Now Greatest in Her History

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—Canada now is doing the greatest export business in its history and the Dominion's export position is "little short of incredible," Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said here tonight.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Mr. MacKinnon said 1942 exports left all previous records far behind and this new high level of export business is being carried forward during the present year.

Mr. MacKinnon said Canada now is the third largest trading nation in the world and he emphasized the country's postwar welfare depends to an important extent on ability to find world markets for its products.

Referring to Britain's Beveridge Plan and Canada's Marsh Plan, the minister asserted: "All these programmes of social security, when it is possible to fully proceed with them, will never prosper within a country if markets for its goods abroad are shrinking."

Officers Chosen By Association

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—Col. H. S. Tobin, of Vancouver, was re-elected chairman of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the annual meeting here tonight. Colonel Tobin is an official of Vancouver Breweries Limited.

J. S. Eckman, of the Canadian Fishing Company Limited, of Vancouver, was chosen first vice-chairman, and C. F. T. Hooper, of the Canadian John Wood Limited, of Vancouver, second vice-chairman.

Named for the executive council were Mr. Eckman, Mr. Hooper, Lawrence Killam, W. J. West, A. S. Gentles, T. S. Dixon, A. S. Baillie and M. Leo Sweeney, all of Vancouver; Edwin Tomlin and R. W. Mayhew, both of Victoria; and J. H. McDonald and J. G. Robson, both of New Westminster.

Six Miles Up!

IT is a curious world that is seen from six miles up in the air, at 31,880 feet. Yet battle has spread that far. There, where to watchers on the ground vapor trails report the progress of action, aero-engines are unheard, and cannon and machine-gun fire sound like peas bursting in a pod, freedom and slavery are fighting it out. Bomber pilots "jink" out of the fire of attackers, fighter pilots turn on their last supercharger speeds that rob the mind of its vision blackout friend and foe alike in a grim, relentless battle. It is the sky patrol. Men trained to the minute are at their posts there for us. They depend upon the fastest planes, the best gasoline, the latest devices that willing minds and eager hearts can devise. And there, six miles up, there is no such thing as holding back. Each gives of his best. The United Nations now hold the upper berth in the skies. We must back that up. It's a bond will do it—and it will—we must invest to the limit of our individual capacities. For that is the way to bring back to us, when slavery has been vanquished, those whom we love. Back the attack!

Cornered Enemy Troops in Tunis Area Present Savage Resistance to British Army

Americans Gain Two Hills—French Aid Montgomery's Men

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 29 (AP).—American and French troops have sliced deeper into the tough Axis mountain defences in Tunisia, but desperate German counter-attacks twenty miles west of Tunis temporarily staved off a British First Army breakthrough into the plain leading to the capital, an Allied communique disclosed today.

Dispatches emphasized the growing resistance of the cornered Axis troops all along the 140-mile arc of ridges, while American troops "gained some important ground" in the North, and a French communique told of the seizure of three more hills north and south of the First Army salient, which had pushed up to the last hill barrier in the way to the Tunis plain.

German resistance was particularly savage in the centre where the First Army had attained the crest of Djebel Bou Aoukaz, only to be pushed back slightly by German shock troops supported by tanks.

The Germans launched two heavy counter-attacks yesterday after the British force had attained the summit of this key hill. The first was repulsed, leaving many enemy dead and some wrecked German tanks.

Then the Germans called up 500 men and thirty of their precious reserve of tanks and succeeded in forcing the First Army "to make a slight withdrawal" in this battlefield twelve miles northeast of Medjez-El-Bab.

FIRST PHASE DEFINITELY CONCLUDED

A dispatch from Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent with the British army at the front, said it appeared that the first phase of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's offensive had been definitely concluded without the expected climactic break-through.

Axis mortar fire also was deadly in this struggle on the heights before Tunis. The arena had produced some of the fiercest fighting of the African campaign. The German troops had been thrown back onto the eastern slope of Djebel Bou Aoukaz, where they reformed and then flooded back onto the western side of the ridge.

That single sector geographically supported military sources, who have warned previously that the Axis troops will only be ousted from Africa at considerable cost.

It is apparent, too, that Axis supplies still are getting through to the besieged troops despite Allied aerial supremacy and staggering Axis losses in planes, ships and material. A further toll of Axis shipping was taken yesterday, and Allied bombers also attacked Naples and Messina across the straits.

AMERICANS GAIN IMPORTANT HILL

The American troops were reported to have gained in the hills bordering the Sidi N'Sir-Mateur road southwest of Bizerte. Bald Hill, the army name for the high barren peak of Djebel Ajred, still was the scene of heavy fighting. Energetic German defence thus far has prevented full occupation of that

From Europe Day by Day—

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1943, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, April 29.—First phase of the Battle for Tunisia has ended in the Allies' favor, says The Times' Algiers correspondent, but nobody supposes there will not be other phases as Axis forces are driven back to the coast.

The capture of Longstop Hill by British troops has weakened the whole German line, but it is now obvious the Germans will hold on to the last man and to the utmost pitch of endurance.

The French Nineteenth Corps have shown magnificent dash in their attacks towards Pont du Fahs, and General Alexander has sent them a message of "gratitude and admiration" for their successes.

So great have been the Nazis' tank losses, they are no longer opposing their tanks to the British but are using anti-tank guns almost entirely. British artillery has shown notable superiority over the enemy's. As the Germans dig in among recesses in the mountains it becomes necessary to blast them out, yard by yard, with shattering gunfire.

"It is an idle dream," says The Times' correspondent with the Eighth Army, "to think of the Germans rushing recklessly to evacuation. We outnumber them greatly, but in these mountains the defensive role has great advantages over the offensive one. The Eighth Army's gains have been made by slow, solid slogging."

It is noteworthy that Admiral Lutzow, German naval spokesman, is now broadcasting hints the Axis may have to relinquish North Africa soon. The admiral admits the British have most of the harbors and airdromes already, have "cleverly handled anti-U-boat defences, including the most effective depth charges and water-bombs," and a waiting fleet of submarines.

"In the Mediterranean," he adds, "our forces have to face almost exclusively the seasoned and war-wise British. The Americans stay in the Atlantic and leave the more perilous Mediterranean to their Allies."

Efforts continue in London and Washington, says The Times' diplomatic correspondent, to heal the breach between Poland and the Soviet Union. The Poles have indicated they will not insist on an international Red Cross enquiry into the deaths of Polish officers, but on the Russian side articles are appearing in Soviet newspapers suggesting that the Sikorski Govern-

NINE KILLED

HARLINGEN, Tex., April 29 (AP).—Nine crew members died in a United States Army medium bomber which crashed and burned in a field near here today. The craft was approaching the air base for a landing after a routine gunnery flight over the Gulf of Mexico.

Russians Shoot Down 116 Planes

Inflict Heavy Toll on Nazis in Two Days

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Russian airmen were reported tonight to have shot down 116 German planes in two days of fighting in the Caucasus, where German dispatches said the Red Army had launched an "expected large-scale attack" in an effort to throw the Nazis into the Black Sea.

A Moscow broadcast recorded by the Soviet monitor said the Russians lost forty-five aircraft during operations yesterday and today, but the Soviets remained silent about any land offensive in the Caucasus.

The German military commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, said the new Soviet push in the Kuban River valley north of Novorossisk, the last major German foothold in the Caucasus, had become a full offensive involving infantry and tanks as well as airplanes. He added: "The enemy so far has failed to score any success."

AIR STRUGGLE IN KUBAN AREA

For the first time in days Moscow's midnight bulletin did not even mention the Kuban area, although a Russian broadcast later told of the intense air struggle there.

Russia often has delayed announcements of her new offensives, and the midnight communique merely reported scattered fighting west of Rostov, north of the Caucasian sector, and said 200 Germans had been killed on the front west of Moscow.

Another Nazi military commentator, Col. Ernest von Hammer, reported from the front that the Russians attacked in regimental and divisional strength early this morning in the Kuban area and also had thrown in heavy assaults south of Lake Ladoga on the Leningrad front.

He called the Kuban attacks "vain," but was vague from that point on, going back to action of yesterday to report "the heaviest losses suffered by the Bolsheviks."

Boeing Plants Remain Closed

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—Plants of Boeing Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., remained in darkness tonight for the second consecutive night since an unauthorized rest period taken by the workers was answered with a shutdown of power.

Officials of the Aeronautical Mechanics' Lodge, No. 756 (A.F. of L.), spent the morning in conference but had no new developments to announce to about 3,000 workers who turned out for a noon meeting in Powell Street grounds.

The meeting passed a resolution for transmission to Prime Minister King calling for the resignation of Ralph P. Bell, director of aircraft production, on whose order the original application for rest periods was refused.

On the instructions of the union thousands of workers reported to the company's four plants for the day shift at 7 a.m. today but gradually drifted home as the gates remained locked. Company officials said the plants would stay closed pending advice from Ottawa. They were shut down at 10 a.m. on Wednesday.

Charles Whent, president of the union, said the executive was prepared to meet the management or the Munitions Department "at any time on the basis on which we can go back to work—but don't forget that the rest periods will be in."

"We did not ask for our rest periods without investigation," he said. "It has been scientifically proven that rest periods aid production."

The noon meeting was advised by union spokesmen that several other Vancouver unions had wired expressions of their support to the Federal Labor Department.

Also urging prompt settlement of the dispute in a telegram to Labor Minister Mitchell was Mayor J. W. Cornett, of Vancouver, acting on the request of Boeing employees.

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—Ralph P. Bell, director-general of aircraft production in the Munitions Department, in a statement tonight in connection with a walkout of employees at plants of Boeing Aircraft of Canada, Ltd., in Vancouver in a dispute over rest periods, said the plants "are now closed and will remain closed until such time as enough employees to man the plants are willing to work in conformity with the terms of the contract."

The statement said there was an agreement between the union (Aeronautical Mechanics' Lodge, No. 756, A.F. of L.) and the company for the duration of the war. "Neither the agreement, nor the general plant rules, provide for rest periods," it added, "and there is a definite rule which prohibits smoking in the company's plants.

"Infraction of any rules constitutes cause for discharge or disciplinary action."

SHOT FIRES DYNAMITE

SYRACUSE, N.Y., April 29 (AP).—Two Syracuse boys were injured, one critically, today when a pot-shot from a .22-calibre rifle one of them was carrying exploded a ton of dynamite in a steel storage shack on a farm on the outskirts of Syracuse. The resulting explosion was heard throughout the city.

Victoria Now Leads Halifax In Bond Sales

Victory Loan Total To Date $1,236,250

For the first time since the campaign for the Fourth Victory Loan opened on Monday, Greater Victoria is ahead of Greater Halifax, total subscriptions up to last night for the two communities being:

Greater Victoria, $1,236,250; Greater Halifax, $1,198,050.

Every unit in the Victoria district shot ahead of returns for the corresponding stage of the Third Victory Loan in October, 1942, Saanich recovering Wednesday afternoon after having slipped back during the morning. Greater Victoria's total of $1,236,250 topped last Fall's figure at this stage by $314,250, an increase of approximately 30 per cent, which is still short of the quota increase of approximately 37½ per cent.

With organization functioning more smoothly, however, officials of the Vancouver Island Division, National War Finance Committee, are more convinced than ever that the Fourth Victory Loan quota of $7,080,000 for the four Victoria units will be exceeded.

Totals for the various units to date follow, figures in brackets being the amount subscribed at the corresponding date of the Third Victory Loan:

Victoria City, $823,150 ($618,200).
Saanich, $146,700 ($143,350).
Oak Bay, $159,350 ($108,150).
Esquimalt, $67,050 ($42,300).

Loan Subscriptions, Totals Continue to Pass Last Drive

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—The National War Finance Committee announced tonight that 127,712 Canadians subscribed a cumulative total of $175,502,450 to Canada's Fourth Victory Loan in the first three days of the three weeks' campaign. The drive, with a minimum objective of $1,100,000,000, opened April 26.

Comparative figures for the Third Victory Loan, objective of which was $750,000,000, were 106,465 subscribers and $139,084,250. The figures for Wednesday alone were 66,766 subscribers and $57,257,200. The corresponding day's figures in the third loan were 53,823 subscribers and $46,449,950.

Rivalry is still keen among leading cities and towns striving to reach and pass the totals of their gross quota objectives. The leaders in this regard are Summerside, P.E.I., with 78 per cent; Saint John, N.B., 39 per cent; Sherbrooke, Que., 36.6 per cent, and Three Rivers, Que., 35.4 per cent. Fredericton, which passed its objective Tuesday, reported 102 per cent.

OTHER HIGH STANDINGS

Other high standings in regard to total objectives are: Sydney, N.S., 29.6 per cent; Hull, Que., 28.6 per cent; Red Deer, Alta., 26.9 per cent; Brantford, Ont., 26.2 per cent; Calgary, 23.3 per cent; Belleville, Ont., 21.6 per cent; Moose Jaw, Sask., 20.7 per cent; Charlottetown and Niagara Falls, Ont., 19 per cent; Saskatoon, 18.9 per cent; Hamilton, 17.1 per cent.

The separate returns on combined general canvass and payroll savings percentages, coming in completely enough to show the standings of communities in this sphere, put Fredericton in the lead with 60.8 per cent. Others ranking high in percentages of general canvass-payroll quota achieved are: Summerside, 34 per cent; Brantford, 25.2 per cent; Quebec City, 18.2 per cent; Saint John, 17.1 per cent; Moncton, N.B., 16 per cent; Saskatoon, 15.9 per cent; St. Catharines, Ont., 15.3 per cent; Hamilton, 14.7 per cent; Hull, 14.5 per cent; Sherbrooke, 14.2 per cent; Edmonton, 14.1 per cent; Fort William, 13.4 per cent; Moose Jaw, 13.1 per cent; Victoria, 13 per cent.

C.N.R. EMPLOYEES BUY $1,140,000

Employees of the Canadian National Railways bought Victory Bonds totalling $1,140,000, in the first three days of the loan, an official of the system reported.

Ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, some of them far at sea fighting the "Battle of the North Atlantic," are showing the way to naval shore establishments and civilians on the Atlantic Coast with subscriptions as much as 250 per cent over their quota. Reports indicate, however, that the shore establishments also will very shortly "go over the top."

At the end of the first three days of the campaign, all the "ships at sea" had exceeded their quotas, with reports of additional sales still pouring in.

Larger subscriptions reported earlier in the day came from Canada Life Assurance Company, $12,000,000; Consolidated Paper Corporation, Ltd., $2,950,000; Canadian Cottons, Ltd., $1,300,000; Dominion Rubber Company, Ltd., $500,000; Northern Ontario Power Company, Ltd., $500,000; Metropolitan Stores, Ltd., $605,000; Powell River Company, Ltd., and associated companies, $1,287,000.

Armed Forces To Aid Loan With Parade

Aircraft to Drop Prize Pamphlets

Plans are nearing completion for a downtown parade by the three [illegible] the close of the first week of the three-week campaign for the Fourth Victory Loan.

Men on foot, mobile equipment and bands from all three services will participate in the show, which is expected to equal any military display seen in Victoria in the past.

Actively co-operating will be the Victoria Machinery Depot, whose employees are constructing floats graphically depicting spectacular aspects of the shipbuilding industry.

As in past Victory Loan events, Victoria will be "bombed" in friendly fashion during the day, an aircraft dropping thousands of pamphlets advertising the loan, some of them specially marked being good for prizes in War Savings Stamps or Certificates.

More pamphlets will be discharged by a depth-charge thrower from a naval float which will be one of the outstanding spectacles of the parade.

NAVY TO LEAD SERVICES PARADE

The Royal Canadian Navy will lead the parade in its place as senior service, its contingent of upwards of 400 men being commanded by Lieut. Bruce Bracken, son of John Bracken, former Premier of Manitoba and now leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

A company of cadets from Royal Roads will lead the naval section, being followed in turn by the R.C.N. Band, a battalion of sailors and the naval float.

Three flights of airmen and airwomen, comprising a full squadron, will represent the R.C.A.F. They will be led by the R.C.A.F. Band, which is being brought here from the Mainland for the occasion.

Hundreds of soldiers and members of the C.W.A.C. will take part, the army contingent also including a display of anti-aircraft guns and other pieces of equipment, many of them new to the public. Marshal of the parade will be Capt. R. C. Taft, of the Army Provost Corps.

PREMIER HART TO TAKE SALUTE

The salute will be taken by Premier John Hart at the saluting base in front of the Empress Hotel, where he will be accompanied by Mayor Andrew McGavin, reeves of neighboring municipalities, Provincial Government officials, heads of the three armed services and dignitaries of the church.

The parade will move off from Hillside and Douglas at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday, proceeding south on Douglas to Belleville, west on Belleville to Government, north on Government past the saluting base to dispersal points farther north along Government Street.

President Back At White House

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—President Roosevelt ended a twenty-state war inspection tour today with an idea that the youth of America, making use of industrial plants and military camps, might well give a year's service to the United States Government in the postwar era.

He had traveled 7,652 miles in seventeen days, checking up on widely-scattered war activities and dropping into Mexico to confer with President Manuel Avila Camacho.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters accompanying him that the trip convinced him that the armed forces and the home front factories are in their stride, but that he was wondering what could be done after victory is won, with camps and plants in which millions have been invested.

He had no specific plan or programme to offer, but he emphasized the benefits of physical condition and mental alertness that men and women in service and war-worker uniforms had realized in the last few months. And he indicated that he thought their training should be extended to all young men and women in some form after the war is won.

GENERAL OLDS DEAD

TUCSON, Ariz., April 29 (AP).—Maj.-Gen. Robert Olds, forty-seven, former commander of the United States Second Air Force, who set up the Army Air Force Ferry Command, died here Wednesday. He came to Tucson for his health shortly after he was relieved of command of the Second Air Force last February 24.

Andrews Quits As Premier of North Ireland

BELFAST, April 29 (CP).—Prime Minister John Miller Andrews tendered his resignation today to the Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Northern Ireland, and it was understood that Sir Basil Brooke, Minister of Commerce, would be asked to form a new Government.

The Ulster Conservative party, to which Mr. Andrews is a member, held a four-hour meeting yesterday, at which demands for changes in the Cabinet were heard.

With Mr. Andrews' resignation went the resignation of his Cabinet.

The move ended four months of recurrent disputes within the party during which some critics charged that the seventy-two-year-old Andrews was too old to continue his job effectively.

Sir Basil, fifty-four, has urged that more war industries be set up in Northern Ireland and has had several conferences with British Government leaders on the subject.

Air Crew Lives To Tell Story Of Plane Dive

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Flt. Sgt. R. E. (Mouse) Taylor, D.F.M., of Boonville, Ind., and members of his crew at an R.C.A.F. bomber station overseas described tonight how they limped home on one motor after a recent raid on Wilhelmshaven, their plane riddled with flak, their wireless operator's trousers torn by a machine gun bullet, and one badly damaged Messerschmitt 110 to their credit.

Taylor, said Air Force Headquarters in an overseas press release, won the D.F.M. for his part in this operation.

Sgt. A. G. (Ace) Bailey, Cloverdale, B.C., was the gunner who engaged the Messerschmitt.

"I first saw him about 1,000 yards away," he said. "He opened fire at 800 yards, and ended by sailing right over top of us. I was firing back, and my tracers appeared to be going right through him. I got a good hot burst into his belly as he went over top. I let him have about 2,000 rounds. I saw him go into a spiral dive and disappear into the mist."

During an 8,000-foot dive that followed a flak attack which damaged the plane, Bailey was forced right up into the top of his turret, unable to move. "I thought it was all over," he recalled.

Most fortunate crew member was Flt. Sgt. J. M. (Taffy) Williams, of 1930 Lorne Street, Regina, the wireless operator. A machine gun bullet from the Nazi fighter ploughed through his parachute pack and his heavy flying suit, slicing a rip in his trousers.

"All I felt was a bump," he said. The terrific strain of the dive ripped instruments off the walls of the aircraft and tore the navigator's steel chair loose; most of the miscellaneous debris fell on Williams.

Ontario Cuts Liquor Ration

TORONTO, April 29 (CP).—Reduction from 130 to eighty ounces a month in the maximum quantity of spirits which may be purchased by an individual in Ontario was announced today by the Province's Liquor Control Board. The liquor order followed one last night providing for a system of rationing beer for-home consumption.

The liquor restrictions become effective May 1, while the beer-rationing plan is expected to come into effect May 17.

Beer coupon books will cover the period until next October 31 when the Dominion Government's 90 per cent restriction on sale of beer expires. Coupons in each book will be divided by months and those not used in the current month will lapse.

In the books ten coupons will be provided for each month.

Each coupon will cover purchase of six pints of beer. But at least for the present only six coupons will be valid each month. Detached coupons will not be accepted.

The liquor order provides these limits on monthly and daily purchases:

Monthly: Two 40-ounce bottles; or three 25, 26 or 26 1-2-ounce bottles; or six 10, 12 or 13-ounce bottles.

Daily: One 40-ounce bottle; or two 25, 26 or 26 1-2-ounce bottles; or four 10, 12 or 13-ounce bottles.

FREIGHTER MISSING

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—The American-Swedish News Exchange here has announced the disappearance of the Vaalaren, 3,406-ton Swedish motor freighter, with a crew of thirty-eight aboard. Of these thirty are of Swedish nationality. She is presumed to be a war loss, the announcement said.

Car and Bus Strike Ends

Operators Seek $1.05 And $1.15 Per Hour

CLEVELAND, April 29 (AP).—Striking members of the A.F.L. Street Car and Motorcoach Operators' Union voted late today to end a paralyzing seventeen-hour walkout on Cleveland's municipal transportation system and return immediately to their jobs.

The strike today had tied up Cleveland's mass transportation system, forcing uncounted thousands of war workers to thumb rides from friendly motorists or to walk to their jobs.

Not a street car or city bus could be seen on busy Public Square during the morning rush hour as the City Transit System's riders—averaging 1,315,000 fares daily—pulled their idle automobiles from garages and created traffic jams reminiscent of prerationing days.

In walking out at midnight, the unionists defied an order by their international officials and also ignored a telegraphed plea by the United States Under-Secretary of War, Robert P. Patterson, to refer their wage dispute to Government agencies.

Thomas P. Meany, president of the Cleveland local of the Street Car and Motor Coach Operators' Union, said the union is maintaining its original demand for a wage scale of $1.05 an hour for street car motormen and conductors, and $1.15 an hour for bus drivers, who operate alone. At present street car men receive 90½ cents an hour and bus operators 97½ cents hourly.

Bomber Raids Enemy Outpost

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—The United States Navy reported today that an army bomber force had struck heavily at Tarawa Island, one of Japan's main advance outposts in the South Pacific, while in the North Pacific an American naval force bombarded Japanese-occupied Attu Island.

A navy communique said:

"South Pacific (all dates are east longitude):

"1. On April 23, a force of army bombers attacked the Japanese air base at Tarawa in the Gilbert Islands. Extensive damage to enemy installations was indicated. Enemy fighter opposition and anti-aircraft fire was encountered, but all United States planes returned.

"2. On April 28, Liberator (Consolidated B-24) heavy bombers attacked Japanese installations at Kahili in the Shortland Island area and at Vila in the Central Solomons. Results were unobserved.

"North Pacific:

"3. On April 24, during the morning, United States surface units bombarded Japanese positions at Holtz Bay and at Chichagof Harbor, Attu Island. Several fires were started by the bombardment. No enemy gunfire was encountered. No further details have been reported.

"4. On April 27, despite bad weather, Army Lightning (Lockheed P-38) fighters carried out one attack against Japanese installations at Kiska. Results were not observed."

Would Execute Allied Airmen

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—The Berlin radio said in a broadcast tonight that Rome newspapers had suggested that British and American airmen be executed—Tokio-fashion—following the United States raid Monday on Grosseto, an airport ninety miles northwest of Rome.

No direct quotes were attributed to the newspapers, Levere and Piccolo, by the German station in its broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press.

The Italian News Agency in a Rome broadcast asserted 145 persons were killed and 168 injured, in the raid.

Piccolo was said to have published a photograph "of a fountain pen with a high-explosive charge dropped by British airmen over Italy," and which was said to have caused the death of Italian children.

HITLER'S LAST HOPE

HITLER still has one hope left.

He knows now that he can't win this war, but he is gambling that we won't be able to win it either. He's hoping we will tire under the crushing cost of total war and fail to see it through to the bitter end. He knows, if this happens, that he will be the real victor — that the way will be open for his armies and airmen to fight again another day.

That is why this Fourth Victory Loan must not fail.

It is the test of our determination, as a free people, to outwork, out-fight and outlast Axis slaves. The road has been long, the load has grown heavier. The purchase of more bonds will mean giving up still more—even life's very necessities.

It is the only way to make sure the coming offensive will end, not in the half-victory which Hitler would now gladly settle for, but in total victory for us. This alone will have made the war worth fighting. This alone will make life worth living for ourselves and our children.

New Liquor Rations Announced

Commissioner Hopes To Abolish Queues

Liquor permit holders in British Columbia are going to get their taps cut still further, according to the new liquor rations scheduled to come into effect on May 3, and announced here yesterday by Liquor Commissioner W. F. Kennedy.

Earlier rationing allowed provision for the choice of three classes of drinks, spirits, beer and wine, but drinkers will have to be specific under the new regulations, being allowed only one choice with the following monthly ration:

One reputed quart of spirits or one dozen pints of beer or two quarts of wine.

"Available stocks are so limited it is hoped by this arrangement to permit the sale of a reasonable quantity to each purchaser, which would be impossible if we endeavored to arrange for a portion of each class of liquor for every permit holder," Mr. Kennedy said.

Liquor stores in the province closed yesterday and will remain closed today and Saturday in order to permit the staff to receive and arrange for sufficient stocks to operate the new ration.

NO INDIVIDUAL LIQUOR FOR NEXT THREE DAYS

"During these three days men in the stores will continue to take care of the licencees' business (beer parlors and clubs) and will also fill any necessary doctors' prescriptions, but under no circumstances will liquor be served on individual liquor permits," Mr. Kennedy said.

Starting also on Monday the stores will be open again eight hours a day, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., with the exception of Wednesdays when the hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Beer orders for home delivery may continue to be placed at Johnson Street store between 10 and 11 a.m. each day, and the Humboldt Street store will take care of doctors' prescriptions between 10 and 11 a.m. each day.

MAKES PUBLIC NUMBER OF PERMIT HOLDERS

Mr. Kennedy today made public for the first time the number of liquor permits out among the people of British Columbia, in order, he said, "to show how difficult it is to distribute present supplies."

"Since war started, his figures show, liquor permits have increased steadily. At the fiscal year ending March 31, 1939, there were 193,014 liquor permits out; March 31, 1940, 200,826; March 31, 1941, 229,941; March 31, 1942, 251,014.

On April 20 last there were 314,498 permits out, compared to 251,341 at the end of April a year ago.

When liquor rationing first started in mid-January the number of permits sold soared to new heights, as every member of many families purchased them.

In the twelve months of the last fiscal year there were 261,014 permits out, compared with 314,498 in the first four months of this year.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Kennedy said: "By next Monday the stores will be fairly well stocked, with the exception of certain wines, which may be delayed for three or four days. It is the intention of the board to continue placing merchandise in the stores to take care of the quantity allowed. Provided the public co-operate by not attempting to all purchase during the first few days of the month, the system should eliminate the unsatisfactory queues which have been the source of annoyance to so many during the past several weeks.

SALES RESTRICTED TO SIX BOTTLES

"Hotel operators selling beer for consumption off the premises are being advised that on and after Monday, May 3, these sales will be restricted to six bottles to one purchaser, and not more than one dozen to any one person in a month. No beer may be sold from the licensed premises and delivered in a carton similar to that in which it is received.

"While the board does not wish to deprive those living in the outlying districts of this service, it is considered that, due to the present shortage, such sales should be on a service basis only, and limited to the quantity allowed through liquor stores and the balance served in the regular way on the licensed premises.

"Each purchaser of liquor will be required to present not only his liquor permit, but also the national registration certificate, or in the case of the armed forces the usual identification papers furnished them from their headquarters."

T. D. Pattullo's Cousin Is Dead

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—Thomas James Pattullo, cousin of former Premier T. D. Pattullo, of British Columbia and employee of the Munitions Department, died today at his home.

Coroner W. T. Shirreff said death is believed due to natural causes, but that a post-mortem examination would be made.

donated to Saanich schools. A vote of thanks was passed to the British America Paint Co., Ltd., for paint to be used on the flagstaff at Beacon Hill Park. The British Columbia Civil Servants and Employees Association was granted use of the former buffalo enclosure at the park for softball games.

Permission was granted the physical education committee of city schools to stage annual sports at Royal Athletic Park on May 21.

A suggestion of Alderman F. A. Willis that citizens be asked to mow boulevards in front of their homes because of the labor shortage was handed to the parks superintendent and city solicitor for a report.

Parks Committee Asks for Briefs

Representatives of sports or other organizations appearing before the City Council parks committee must also submit written briefs, committee members decided during a meeting at the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

It was agreed to allow the Victoria Baseball Association to retain the city's 25 per cent share of gate receipts at Royal Athletic Park on May 8 in order to provide comforts for merchant seamen. A request that the percentage be in future calculated upon net proceeds was handed to the city comptroller for a decision. W. J. Cull's refreshment concession at Royal Athletic Park was renewed for the current year.

No action was taken on a request for football dressing-rooms on the Heywood Avenue grounds at Beacon Mill Park. A letter of thanks was received for a number of shrubs

New Gas Mask For Children

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—First supplies of the "Mickey Mouse" type respirator designed for children from two to four and one-half years of age have arrived in British Columbia and are available to the public, the Provincial Civilian Protection Committee announced today.

In the centre of each mask at nose position, is a flat rubber nosepiece which vibrates violently when the air is expelled, distracting children from the discomfort and dislike of wearing the respirator.

The committee sells the respirators at cost, as it does larger sizes for adults. It was announced today that at a later date it was anticipated that infants' gas bag respirators would be available.

Seek Lost Boy

WINNIPEG, April 29 (CP).—Several truckloads of soldiers from Military District No. 10 today were dispatched to assist in the search for Jerry Moscoe, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Moscoe, missing from his North Winnipeg home since early yesterday.

Officials said about 100 soldiers would join police and other search parties in combing the district where the child disappeared. He was last seen playing with his dog on the lawn.

The Germans raided Southern England last night in an attack officially described as "slight enemy activity" in which none was injured, little damage was caused and the Germans lost one plane.

The Russian announcement of its attack last night on East Prussia said:

"High explosives and incendiaries were dropped on military and industrial objectives of Koenigsberg. Our airmen observed strong explosions and large fires which could be observed from 100 kilometres (more than sixty miles). All our planes except one returned to bases."

CHUNGKING, April 29 (AP).—United States fighters were reported semi-officially to have shot down ten Japanese planes out of a force of forty which attacked Kunming, capital of Yunnan Province, Southwestern China, Wednesday.

Camsell Works on Development Plan

Here to discuss plans for development projects in Northern British Columbia, Alaska and the Yukon, Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minister of mines and resources, called yesterday upon Premier Hart en route to Portland, where he will confer with J. C. Rettie, director of the North Pacific Planning Project.

H. F. Angus, formerly on the faculty of the University of British Columbia, and a former member of the Rowell-Sirois Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations, Dr. Angus is now with the Department of External Affairs at Ottawa.

No official statement has yet been made as to the precise nature or location of the developments in which Dr. Camsell and Dr. Angus are interested, and no definite plans will be announced until they have been passed upon by various governmental bodies at Ottawa and Washington, which are now in frequent conference.

WELL DONE, VICTORIA!

Greater Victoria reported general subscriptions of $1,128,050 up to noon yesterday in the Fourth Victory Loan, compared with $1,062,800 general subscriptions announced by Greater Halifax. That put the Pacific Coast communities concerned ahead by $65,250 in their contest with the Atlantic seaport and Dartmouth. Oak Bay, Esquimalt, and Saanich share with Victoria City the credit for that pace-making. For the moment, we are out in front.

The task now will be to keep there. Halifax and Dartmouth are not going to take the place of a pace-maker's mate to Greater Victoria if they can avoid it. They will strive to get back in front, where in all truth they began. It will be our task to turn aside that challenge and keep our lead from now until the end of the contest. That can be done. We have made the spurt, and that spurt must be turned into a steady pace, and maintained or improved right up to the end, some two weeks from now.

There is the challenge, and it is a lively one. Greater Victoria's $1,128,050 in three and a half days of the campaign came from general sales of Victory bonds and from employee groups, both exclusive of the special list. Greater Halifax's total was compiled on precisely the same basis. It is a fair tussle, and at the moment we are ahead by a nose. Let us make that a neck for security, and then aim at stretching it into a length. That is how tussles are won!

Every bond subscribed for by the people of Greater Victoria helps Canada and helps the men at the front. It is a weapon against the enemy, and a sharp one. It is also provision for happier homes and genuine security in the post-war period. It is an investment without superior in the broad world, for Canada is young and growing. Every bond bought here, moreover, tips the scales in favor of the oldest permanent British station on the Pacific seaboard; in competition with its sturdy and still older contestant on the Atlantic. And in this contest, everybody wins. We lead by a nose; Who'll help to make it a neck?

DECENTRALIZATION

A policy that is now leading to very heavy expenditures is being followed on behalf of the armed forces of the Dominion in the matter of the decentralization of hospital facilities. Seemingly no attention is being paid to building for the future, to that future when, after the war, many thousands of men of the services will continue to require hospital treatment. When that time comes many of the temporary expedients now being devised to meet this branch of the medical needs of the services, will, in the nature of things, be abandoned. The Government may well find itself left without a centralized policy for dealing with this aftermath of the war, and in any case would be put to considerable expense to meet the needs that will arise. On the other hand, a policy followed now of increasing civilian hospital accommodation so as to provide added facilities to cater to those broken physically in the war appears the soundest approach to the problem. Moreover, at this time, and so far as the future is concerned, much money could be saved, because the decentralization of hospital facilities is a costly way of approaching this problem which will continue to exist for decades to come. Some inkling of the methods of the Government is contained in a statement made in the House of Commons by Mr. A. L. MacDonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services. He was replying to questions, and said:

"The Naval Service has no hospital at Victoria, B.C., but has a sick bay at Esquimalt Naval Barracks. This sick bay was enlarged in June, 1942. The wartime committee on hospitalization has also approved the design of a 250-bed hospital proposed for erection on the Royal Roads property for which plans are at present being perfected. The enlargement of sick bay at Esquimalt provides for sixty-four additional beds. Four emergency beds can also be set up in the sun-room as well as one fracture bed. The cost of the sick bay extension, including Diesel electric power unit, is $41,797.50. Cost of the equipment, including estimated cost of linen, crockery, clothing, etc., was $10,552.41. A letter was received from the superintendent, Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B.C., in July, 1942, suggesting the addition of a wing to that hospital for accommodation of personnel of the fighting forces, such new wing to be erected at the expense of the Department of National Defence, with the use, at cost, of the facilities of the Royal Jubilee Hospital in the matter of kitchens, operating rooms, laboratories, X-ray equipment and power plant. The letter was considered by the Naval Board and by the chiefs of staff committee. The chiefs of staff committee reaffirmed its previous decision that 'decentralization' of hospital facilities is most desirable. The offer from the superintendent of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, B.C., was therefore not further dealt with, in view of the decision reached."

If the Government goes ahead with its plans for building a 250-bed hospital at Royal Roads the probability is that it will cost a good deal more than $250,000, because kitchens, operating rooms, laboratories, X-ray equipment and power plant will have to be provided. Then, in addition to this, there is the sick bay at the Naval Barracks, the former Normal School now used as a hospital by the Army, and converted at considerable expense, and, as well, a hospital established at the Patricia Bay airfield. The cost of all these and of what is proposed adds up to a considerable sum, and they are one and all in the nature of temporary expedients, some of which will be abandoned after the war. By far the better way, the more economical way, would be to add to civilian hospital accommodation so as to provide the necessary facilities in more permanent form for the men of the services who now require and those who will require treatment. That would mean a definite item in the programme of reconstruction that should be in progress at this time.

A STABILIZED POLICY

What he called "a note of sober caution" was sounded by Mr. Winston Churchill in his latest broadcast speech, one which seems to have fallen on deaf ears as far as the proponents of monetary reforms are concerned. While he admitted that all the improvements sought and the expansion desired in the future must be related to a "sound and modernized finance" he made it clear that he believes in none of the revolutionary ideas that are emitted so persistently by those who desire to overthrow the existing monetary system and seek to substitute for it some untried experiment which is often no more than the phantom of a hope that better conditions may be evolved. Mr. Churchill's statement will bear the test of contemporary human experience. He said:

"A friend of mine said the other day in the House of Commons that 'pounds, shillings and pence were meaningless symbols.' This made me open my eyes. What then are we to say about the savings of the people? We have just begun a 'Wings for Victory' war savings campaign, to which all classes have subscribed. Vast numbers of people have been encouraged to purchase war savings certificates. Income tax is collected from the wage-earners of a certain level and carried to a nest-egg for them at the end of the war, the Government having the use of the money meanwhile. A nest-egg similar in character will be given to the armed forces. Those whose houses have been destroyed by air raid damage and have in many cases paid insurance are entitled to compensation. All these obligations were contracted in pounds, shillings and pence. At the end of this war there will be 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 people in the country with £200 or $300 apiece, a thing unknown in our history. These savings of the nation, arising from the thrift, skill or devotion of individuals, are sacred. The State is built around them, and it is the duty of the State to redeem its faith in an equal degree of value. I am not one of those who is wedded to undue rigidity in the management of the currency system, but this I say: That over a period of ten or fifteen years there ought to be a fair, steady continuity of values if there is to be any faith between man and man or between the individual and the State. We have successfully stabilized prices during the war. We intend to continue this policy after the war to the utmost of our ability."

ORDER IS REVOKED

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is to be congratulated upon having receded from a position which would have closed meat stalls in the public markets on Vancouver Island, and brought a considerable range of hardship upon small and independent groups of farmers who handle a certain amount of livestock of their own butchering. The position created by the original order from Ottawa was untenable, and good sense has lead to its retraction in the form now officially announced.

Vancouver Island does not mind being called "a deficiency area," if that means that our public markets can stay open, and men with livestock to sell placed in the position where they can continue to market animals at a reasonable return. In this instance, the good offices of Dr. K. C. MacDonald, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, who forwarded Vancouver Island protests to Ottawa, are to be appreciated. An unreasonable course has been replaced by a reasonable one. That in the long run will prove its own best justification.

To Vancouver Island farmers who stood up to their guns, and to those associations who spoke for them, must go a considerable share of the credit for the revocation of what looked like a blanket order directed against such producing areas as this. The results were worthwhile, and show again that differences can be adjusted best on the spot, and before harm has been done. If Vancouver Island has to be a "deficiency area" it will be a "deficiency area," but that in no respect will apply, either now or later, to its continuing resources of common sense. Our livestock men were right.

WHAT IS THE REASON?

On the American side details are given about ship launchings, both naval and merchant marine. On this side of the line a pettifogging policy of suppression of information is practised by the censorship. Within the last few days notice has been given in Seattle newspapers of two mine-sweepers to be launched on Puget Sound. Their names, the actual locations of the yards from which they will take the water and other details have been furnished to the public. There is no secrecy, no such camouflage as designating the source of origin as a "West Coast Port," no attempt to conceal the identity of the vessels. Since, in this particular, the United States sees neither rhyme nor reason for censorship, why should the absurd suppression of news obtain in Canada? This country is in no sense more intimately connected with the War than its neighbor. The difference seems to be, where censorship is concerned, that men of small minds adjudicate in this Dominion. It is not the way to promote war effort; it is the way to allow idle rumor to grow. Ship launchings are seen, in all instances, by many hundreds of persons, by the workmen at the yards and by invited guests. That any secrecy should be imposed on the Press in telling of such happenings is shown to be ridiculous from the example which prevails on the American side.

REINCARNATION

I too remember distant golden days
When even my soul was young; I see the sand
Whirl in a blinding pillar towards the band
Of orange sky-line 'neath a furquoise blaze—
(Some burnt-out sky spread o'er a glistening land)
—And slim brown jargoning men in blue and gold.
I know it all so well, I understand
The ecstasy of worship ages-old.

Hear the first truth: The great far-seeing soul
Is ever in the humblest husk; I see
How each succeeding section takes its toll
In fading cycles of old memory,
And each new life the next life shall control
Until perfection reach Eternity.

—E. Wyndham Tennant.

A steadfast concert for peace can never be maintained, except by a partnership of democratic nations. No autocratic government could be trusted to keep faith within it or observe its covenants.—Woodrow Wilson.

There be three things which are too wonderful for me, yea, four which I know not: The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid.—Proverbs xxx, 18-19.

Note and Comment

By SANDHAM GRAVES

There is a band outside of the window going umpha-pa, and sometimes umpha-papa; and I, who from birth have been afflicted by a musical toe, have some difficulty in concentrating. The sun is shining very brightly, the crowd in the street is light-hearted and gay, and the band is playing with spirit and verve. My mind on the music is not as it should be, or I simply doesn't produce columns. One keeps wondering if the umpha-pa thing is hard on the man who blows it. His cheeks keep swelling and contracting, filling and emptying in quite an alarming fashion. His big toe is a-twitter, on the starboard side.

My eyes stray to the big drummer, who is swinging it manfully. His sticks cut a bright circle of light in the sun, now to port, then to starboard, now over the drum, now beside it, and once—as I live—clear around his back and up at the drum from that side! He wears a heavy fur apron—I can't quite make out of what fur, except that it looks like a cougar. The sun is warm and direct, the day mild and windless—and you can just see that the big drummer is saving his big toe to get home on. But his arms and his wrists more than make up for that. What circles they cut in the air!

My eyes stray further, and there is a whole curb full of people, all of them swinging their big toes in unison. I tell you that is an impressive sight. Starboard and port, port and starboard, there they go down the whole length of the block, and on both sides! One part of my mind tells me that there is a lag to sound, and that, of course, accounts for the policeman at the very end. His big toe is late! It is half a beat behind that of the big woman, with the crown-o-glory daisies in her hat; three-quarters of a beat behind that of the umpha-pa welder; and a full beat in the rear of the big drummer. But why shouldn't it be? This is a free world.

My eyes return to the platform, where a slight gentleman—with a supernaturally powerful voice—is composing his features in preparation to appeasing that most rabid of all tyrants—a microphone. My heart goes out to him. Of old, I know the microphone. Speak into it naturally, and it will roar back at you. Whisper into it, and it will take the sibilant "s's" and run them into rills, into streams, into veritable rivers of flowing sound. Lose your temper, stand back and roar at the microphone, and it will beat the umpha-papa all hollow, and no holds barred. Take it by its shining throat, and it will sometimes squeal and howl for you. Ah, turn but half of a cold shoulder to it, and the microphone will behave for you like a lamb—the obstinate, contrary thing! My friend is wise, he is rehearsing it; feeding it little words, like "one, two, three," and then a pause, and then the same all over again. Kindness will do anything!

Now the music rests, the microphone rests, the big toes rest, and one can hear the busy, reverberating murmur of the crowds. Children's voices predominate—and how good it is to hear them! The inevitable dog has appeared—not that savage, untamed beast which frightens adults on the beach—but a small, black puppy; infinitely curious as to the gaiters worn in His Majesty's senior service, and, perhaps, the dobbin on the boots. Just abaft—I think that is the word—of the puppy is a toddler who now has been twice down the length of the block. The script says she is to be lost, and found again six times before the show ends. And it is even so. In the end, it is the small black puppy who finds her, as she was about to go home with the Jones. All ends happily, and well.

There goes the band swinging up the street, umpha-pa, big drummer and all. The platform is emptying. The crowds are drifting away. The lost have been found. The Jones have disgorged their ill-gotten gains. Everybody is happy. And I, who have watched it happen many times before, am happy too. For I reflect, seriously, that here is an evidence of Canada's national spirit in this, the hardest war of modern times. It is well that people can laugh and play, as well as work and strive. That little child in the street had three thousand mothers and fathers in a moment, and couldn't have been lost, as Tweedledum would say it, nohow. It is a British scene, a British crowd, and there in the air is the White Ensign, one of the cleanest flags of all. And I, who had a column to write, would seem somehow to have done it.

City Increases All Water Rates—A new scale of water rates, calculated to increase the city's revenue from this source to the extent of at least $20,000, was submitted to the City Council last night by Water Commissioner C. H. Rust, and approved. The prices will go into effect on May 1, and for the first three months will be enforced as an experiment, and if they fail to bring satisfactory results the Council may make a further increase.

Petitions Plentiful—The opposition of certain residents of Vancouver to the erection of the new Government buildings in this city took a new form on Saturday last, when petitions praying the Governor-General to veto the Government Buildings Act, and also asking that the Legislature of the Province be made more representative of all parts of the Province were displayed at the street corners, for all to sign who passed. In the evening, each of these tablets bore a lamp in addition to the papers, pen and ink, and the stranger within the gates, as well as the citizen, was invited to subscribe to the expression of disapproval.

Gasoline Found in Fire Extinguishers

PORTLAND, Ore., April 29 (AP).—Discovery of five fire extinguishers filled with gasoline in the hold of a ship during a fire there was reported today by Edward Grenfell, Portland fire chief.

Grenfell said a small fire broke out in the hold of the ship during construction in the Albina Engine & Machine Works yard. A workman turned an extinguisher on the flames. They flared violently when the liquid reached them. The blaze was extinguished by other means.

Grenfell said the other extinguishers were gasoline filled.

Although police said it is probable that gasoline was used to fill the extinguishers by mistake the Federal Bureau of Investigation has started an investigation.

height which is about twelve miles west of Mateur.

Between the American zone and the British salient pointed at Tunis, another struggle was going on in the Djebel Mefiah area. British troops were said to have taken Sidi Hamed village in an indecisive clash in this sector ten miles north-northeast of Medjez-el-Bab.

The Berlin radio broadcast a dispatch from the International Information Bureau—a Nazi propaganda agency—claiming that the Axis Tunisian forces had repulsed four British and two American divisions last week-end, and declaring that the Allies had lost 120 guns, several hundred vehicles, and the equivalent of three tank divisions. The broadcast was recorded by The Associated Press.

TAKE OVER ALL KEY POSITIONS

German troops were said to have taken over all key positions with the exception of those atop the sheer mountain walls facing the British Eighth Army in the South. About a third of the Axis troops still there were Italian.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's Eighth Army has been able to gain only two to seven miles since last week's Enfidaville attack because of the terrain which prevents use of his powerful tank armada. The Allied communique today reported only "very active patrolling" in that sector.

French troops attacking near the North Coast were closest to Bizerte in the Sidi Mansour area twenty-two miles west of that Axis stronghold. A French communique tonight said that despite "violent activity by German infantry supported by tanks," the French had captured Djebel Elsena in this sector, "inflicting severe casualties on the enemy and capturing some prisoners."

On the southwestern rim of the Axis defence line the French still were threatening Pont du Fahs, another gateway to the Tunis Plain thirty-five miles southwest of the capital.

FRENCH CAPTURE TWO POINTS

South of Pont du Fahs at a point nine miles northwest of Djebebina the French said their troops captured Djebel Krimir and Djebel Berhalfa "in close liaison with the left wing of the British Eighth Army." This indicated that Gen. Montgomery had swung a sizable portion of his troops inland from the coast after failing to make substantial progress there where Axis mountain batteries command the coastal road.

Low clouds hampered consistent air attacks on the entrenched Axis divisions, but despite this yesterday Allied planes destroyed seventeen enemy aircraft in combat over Tunisia and in other attacks against Mediterranean traffic. Two Allied planes were reported missing. Light and medium bombers destroyed enemy vehicles and started fires in other target areas in their sweeps over the area.

At sea, one Axis vessel identified as a landing craft was reported sunk in the Gulf of Tunis, and three others, two of them believed to be gasoline transports, were left aflame. Another ship was left afire in the Sicilian Straits and several others were damaged.

U.S. BOMBERS RAID TWO PORTS

Carrying the war to the enemy's rearward bases United States heavy bombers simultaneously attacked the ports of Naples and Messina in Italy and Sicily yesterday, while Malta-based R.A.F. fighter-bombers dropped explosives on the torpedo boat base, powerhouse and docks at Syracuse.

A communique said direct hits were scored on the docks at Naples, while ferry terminus installations were struck, and at Messina where tiges were started along rail lines south of there.

Four enemy fighters which attempted to interfere with these twin attacks were shot down, and one American bomber was reported missing.

began in October, 1914, when he joined the 95th Saskatchewan Regiment.

He was commissioned as lieutenant and later was transferred to the 68th Battalion, C.E.F. On proceeding to France in 1915, he was posted to the 28th Battalion, winning the Military Cross and Bar. He was twice wounded, first in September, 1916, and for the second time in August, 1918, in the later stages of the Battle of Amiens.

On the reorganization of the permanent force following the Armistice he joined the Royal Canadian Regiment, doing regimental duty from 1920 to 1929 when he went to the Staff College at Camberley, England. Returning to Canada in 1931, he served as a general staff officer on military district staffs in Toronto and Kingston, Ont., and in 1939 went on exchange to the British War office.

PROMOTIONS CAME IN QUICK ORDER

He was in the United Kingdom at the outbreak of war and in December, 1939, was appointed general staff officer (2nd grade) at Canadian Military Headquarters, London. In January, 1940, he joined the staff of the First Canadian Division and the following month, on his promotion to lieutenant-colonel, assumed command of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. In August, 1940, he was appointed general staff officer (1st grade) at a divisional headquarters where he served until his promotion to brigadier in May, 1941. He took the senior officers' course in England in January, 1942, and assumed command of his division in 1942.

Col. Charles Francis Jeffrey Finlay, of Niagara Falls, Ont., had reached his senior rank in less than three years. He joined the supply column of a division, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, in September, 1939.

He qualified for the rank of lieutenant in November, 1939, in a class that included, among others, the well-known Canadian golf star, C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, of London, Ont., himself now a lieutenant-colonel.

Colonel Finlay was a salesman in civilian life. He received his education at Stamford High School, Niagara Falls, and was graduated from Queen's University in 1935, taking a year's post-graduate course in commerce and finance. His wife, Mrs. Marion I. Finlay, and their son, born January 1, 1941, live at St. Thomas.

Since the date of his enlistment, Colonel Finlay's rise in rank was steady. He was promoted to the rank of captain in June, 1940, and received his majority while employed as deputy assistant quarter-master-general in November of that year, subsequently being appointed lieutenant-colonel.

ing communities, but troops could be used without a declaration of martial law to make a show of strength for morale purposes.

Reliable but unquotable sources expressed doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would order Government seizure and operation of the mines.

Lewis' demands on the Appalachian operators include, besides a $2 a day increase, payment of wages for time spent traveling within the mines to and from working places, and unionization of minor supervisory employees. The basic pay for inside work now is $7 a day.

REMAIN FIRMLY BEHIND LEWIS

PITTSBURGH, April 29 (AP).—Reports from Pennsylvania's soft coal miners tonight indicated they were remaining firmly behind President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, and preparing to stop all work at midnight on Friday despite President Roosevelt's plea there be no work stoppage during wartime.

In Indiana County, U.M.W. locals at Kent, No. 1 and No. 2 mines of the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal Company, voted tonight to remain idle, after having the President's telegram to Lewis read to them.

Approximately 1,800 workers at two other pits of the company walked out, making more than 40,000 of the state's 125,000 miners idle.

All but one of Rochester & Pittsburgh mines in Central Pennsylvania, normally employing 5,800, now are idle.

In Fayette County, employees of the H. C. Frick (U.S. Steel) Coke Company at Colonials No. 3 and No. 4 said union leaders notified them they were to stop work Friday morning.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill at the Esquimalt Drydock at any tide, add 30 feet to the height of that water as above given.

According to Culbertson

It is an all too common error for players to give misleading information about the distribution of their hands and then, merely because they have "extra values" in honor tricks, to give the contract a final "push." In other words, there is too much bidding like North's in the following deal:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A Q 7 4
♥ 8 6
♦ A J 8 7
♣ A K 9

WEST
♠ 10 6 5
♥ Q 7 3
♦ 8 5 4
♣ J 5 4 2

EAST
♠ J 9 8 3
♦ 10 3 2
♣ 8 7 6 3

SOUTH
♠ K 2
♥ A K J 10 9 2
♦ K Q 9
♣ Q 10

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
7 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

North-South had agreed to use a no trump based on 3½ to 4 honor tricks and they had further agreed to play no formal slam convention. Thus, when South heard his partner open with a no trump, he decided, quite logically, that there would be a splendid play for twelve tricks, and forthwith bid the small slam in hearts. Certainly this was a sound decision, but unfortunately North still had something to say. Electrified, no doubt, by South's stratospheric leap, North took another good look at his own hand and discovered there an extra ½ trick in spades, to say nothing of the diamond jack, over and above the maximum values announced by his one no trump. Reasoning that if South could bid for a small slam on the basis of a normal no trump from North, a grand slam should be in sight because of the "overage" North promptly bid seven hearts. A moment later, when South had to concede a trick to West's heart queen, North wore the expression, not only of a grieved, but of a much abused man.

It should scarcely be necessary to point out that North deserved cruel and unusual punishment for his seven heart bid. The fact that he found an extra winner in his hand did not even begin to compensate for the more important fact that he had originally "lied" about his distribution. An opening no trump bid is not supposed to include a worthless doubleton, such as North had in hearts. It took no great amount of imagination on North's part to realize that South might have depended on slightly better heart support than North could produce, and on that basis alone North should have been entirely satisfied with the small slam contract.

Exports Higher

Mr. MacKinnon said the great potential markets for Canada's postwar export business are China, the Caribbean countries and Central and South America.

Referring to proper foundations for postwar trade, Mr. MacKinnon reported that in some parts of South America he heard complaints that Canadian firms refused to send samples of their goods and were not particularly prompt in handling correspondence dealing with trade possibilities.

CANADIAN GOODS OF HIGH STANDARD

On the other hand, he continued, he found in the same countries that Canadian goods enjoyed a reputation of being high standard and of excellent quality.

He said that a great fleet of steel cargo ships is being built on the West Coast for war duty and the extent to which those ships can be used by Canada in postwar trading and how the ships can best be distributed and operated is something on which great thought is necessary, but the whole question is being given most careful consideration.

Praising wartime services of Canada's merchant marine, he said there are more than 35,000 merchant seamen serving on vessels of Canadian registry and that 642 of these men have been lost at sea through enemy action.

Referring to British Columbia's wartime industries, Mr. MacKinnon remarked: "There might have been a wider distribution of Canadian wartime production but that is another story."

Rotarians Conclude Conference

Victorian Named On Advisory Board

Their twenty-ninth annual conference now history, visiting delegates to the two-day convention of District 101, Rotary International, today are making plans to return to their homes in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and other parts of British Columbia.

Held in the British Columbia capital city for the second time in three years, the conference, in the words of Harold Lant, president of the Bellingham Rotary Club, and chairman of the resolutions committee, "was one of the most instructive in the district."

In well-chosen, clearly-spoken words Mr. Lant thanked Tom J. Davis, past-president, Rotary International, of Butte, Mont., for attending the convention and giving his inspirational address at the morning session, and complimented District Governor Fred K. Jones, Spokane, for the creditable way he conducted his important duties.

Gordon H. Scott, president Seattle Rotary Club, in a brief address at the afternoon session, appealed to the delegates to go back to their clubs and take up the matter of donations to the Rotary Foundation, a fund needed if Rotary was to take its proper place in the postwar world.

Gerald A. Yardley, past-president of the Victoria Rotary Club and general conference chairman, presented gifts of appreciation for "services rendered" to Tom J. Davis, Fred K. Jones and Frank Doherty. The presentations were from the members of District 101, Rotary International, for the splendid work the recipients have performed in the interest of Rotary.

MAKES DONATION TO THE RED CROSS

At the suggestion of the visiting American delegates certain moneys in the conference funds amounting to approximately $50 will be donated to a Canadian war charity, probably the Red Cross.

Robert Cheyne, Kelowna, district governor nominee, who will take office in a few months, was introduced at the afternoon session and received an ovation. Speaking from the rostrum of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Cheyne thanked the members for the high honor conferred upon him and promised to do his best while in office.

Mrs. Gerald A. Yardley, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah and Mrs. Frank Doherty, Victoria, and Mrs. Fred K. Jones, wife of the district governor, were introduced during the afternoon and given a round of applause.

Delegates at the afternoon session heard Theo. Karle, Seattle, concert artist, in a number of vocal selections. Arville Biestad, also of Seattle, acted as accompanist.

Harry Dillin, president-elect, of McMinnville, Oregon, Rotary Club, spoke on "The Rotarian" and his part in the postwar world.

Adjourning the session at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, delegates went to the Empress Hotel for the late afternoon and evening group meetings at which routine business was conducted.

One of the final items on the agenda was the election of a member to the Canadian advisory committee and to nominate an international director from Canada. Frank I. Doherty, well-known Victoria Rotarian, was chosen for the important post.

Tom J. Davis of Butte, Montana, past-president and representative of Rotary International, and Benjamin H. Kizer, of Spokane, associate member of National War Labor Board, were the speakers at the morning session.

Mr. Davis spoke of the responsibility of Rotary providing leadership in the world after the war, and stated that the organization could play a great role in building up hemispheric solidarity through helping and understanding peoples of the Latin-Americas.

Mr. Kizer's talk was on "Planning for the Postwar World."

ment no longer represents the Polish people, and that it ought to be replaced by a Government which does.

Nazi propaganda is doing its utmost to abet the quarrel as a means of weakening the Anglo-Russian alliance. According to The Times' Moscow correspondent, the view taken there is that the suspension of Soviet-Polish relations need not cause any breach between the Russian and Polish peoples.

What Moscow wants is that the Poles shall be led by truly democratic individuals and not by men who, it is alleged, would not have the Polish army fighting alongside the Red Army in Russia, but prefer to evacuate it to the Middle East.

Dawson-Mayo Leads Sales

VANCOUVER, April 29 (CP).—The British Columbia-Yukon Division added $14,000,000 to its total Thursday to make a total of $34,625,500 recorded for the first four days of the three-week campaign to raise $110,000,000.

George Grexton Aged 104 Years Called by Death

George Grexton, who was born in Ontario in 1838, and spent practically all of his 104 years in Canada, died on Tuesday night at Maple Rest Nursing Home, 817 Douglas than thirty years in the Victoria district.

Full of zest for living until the last, Mr. Grexton's only disability was caused by bullet wounds received during the Fenian raids in 1866, when he was shot in both legs and through the left elbow. Every few years the wounds in his legs required treatment.

He accounted for his old age by the fact that his father lived to 112 years, his mother to ninety-eight, and that, except for his part in the famous raids, he lived a quiet life free of sickness.

For thirty-two years he sailed on the Great Lakes, and once made a trip to Liverpool aboard a cattle boat. A widower since 1920, he had married twice, and raised nineteen sons and daughters.

USED TOBACCO SINCE CHILDHOOD

Mr. Grexton never used glasses in his reading, and had used tobacco since his eighth year. Like his father, an Irish farmer who settled in Canada early in the last century, he worked on the land a good part of his life, and continued to farm after settling at Sooke. In later years he preferred gardening to the heavier work of farming. While living in the city he used to go for walks every day, and occasionally did a little shopping.

One of the high moments in his life was on May 31, 1939, when he was greeted personally by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth at Ogden Point, just before Their Majesties left the city after their visit.

He is survived by two sons, Samuel J., 86 Dallas Road, and Thomas, at Brentwood; a daughter in Alberta, eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The Thomson Funeral Home has charge of funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

Churchill Praises

NEW YORK, April 29 (CP).—Prime Minister Churchill told the Chamber of Commerce of the United States meeting here tonight that without the constant flow from your factories to supplement output Allied armies could not have gained the remarkable victories of the last six months."

The Prime Minister's message was read by Eric Johnston, president of the chamber, who also received a message from President Roosevelt.

Boy Gets Bond With Proceeds of Weasel And Rabbit Pelts

CALGARY, April 29 (CP).—Here's the story of how eleven-year-old Garnet Eldon Leach, of Empress, got his Victory Bond.

He went to a salesman and proudly put down his $50. The salesman asked the lad how he earned his money. Eldon said that away last Fall he decided he would buy a Victory Bond so he started out hopefully with a .22 rifle and some snares. He got enough weasel and jack rabbit pelts to earn the fund, and besides $50 cash for the first bond, he had $16 which he gave towards the start of his next bond.

Eldon's parents operate a farm twelve miles north of Empress and he has to go three miles to school. He hasn't a great deal of spare time, because his father is ill and Eldon has quite a number of chores to do.

Canners Get New Wage Order for Women Workers

A minimum wage order relating to the employment of women in the fishing industry has just been issued by the Board of Industrial Relations, it was announced yesterday by Adam Bell, chairman of the board. Signing of the order followed many conferences at which all parties concerned were represented.

The new order covers the work of women of any nationality engaged in the washing, preparing, preserving, canning, drying, curing, smoking, packing, labelling and reconditioning of containers, or otherwise adapting for sale or use, or for shipment, any kind of fish or shell fish.

An hourly minimum rate of 33c is prescribed for all such employees, but provision is made for learners of any age with less than 200 hours' employment in the industry to be employed under licence from the board at 28c per hour. The act itself limits the number that may be paid at the lower rate.

Every employee called for employment by her employer shall be paid the legal minimum wage after reporting at the place of employment.

The order requires that employers shall, at least as often as semi-monthly, pay to each employee covered by the order allowages and salary earned by the employee up to a day not more than eight days prior to the date of payment.

Hours are restricted to ten in the day and to forty-eight in the week, except when a permit in writing for longer working hours has been obtained from the board.

The wage clauses in the order do not apply to women engaged in "heading and filling," but their working hours will be regulated by the new order which becomes effective on May 3 this year.

This order supersedes one of the early rulings of the original Minimum Wage Board, which partially covered women's work in the fishing industry but exempted operations in connection with canned fish. The new order will be more far reaching in its scope.

For First Time in History "Wrens" Will Come to Coast

For the first time in the history of the Royal Canadian Navy "Wrens" will take up duties on this coast. Members of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service will shortly arrive in Victoria in the course of their duties, it was announced yesterday by Chief Officer Dorothy Isherwood, director of the Women's Naval Service of Canada, and First Officer Doris Taylor, staff officer quarters, who looks after living accommodation for all the Wrens in Canada.

Miss Isherwood and Miss Taylor yesterday visited Royal Canadian Naval College, "where we hope to have Wrens placed by next September as cooks, stewardesses, clerks motor transport drivers, switchboard operators," said the former. They were guests of the naval officer in charge of Esquimalt before leaving for Vancouver last night. They will fly back to Ottawa on Sunday, and while in this city were busy conferring with naval authorities on the question of quarters for the officers and girls who will arrive here shortly.

GALT GIRLS HAVE FINE RECORD

"The Wrens who are coming to Victoria," said Chief Officer Dorothy Isherwood, "will be graduates of the training school at Galt. Recruits are entering Galt at the rate of 100 per week," she said. The girls have made a very fine record, and "are measuring up well to the high standards set by their sisters abroad," Miss Isherwood remarked. She spoke of the enthusiasm of the recruits, and mentioned that there is a particularly large number of applicants from the prairies. "Winnipeg has excellent recruiting results," she observed.

Chief Officer Isherwood pointed out that sailmakers, laundresses, meteorologists and librarians are new trades recently opened up in the service for which girls and women are urgently needed at the present time, as well as recruits for the other categories such as messengers, transport drivers, sick berth attendants, clerical workers of all kinds, cooks and stewardesses.

Most Canadian girls in the W.R.C.N.S. show a keen eagerness to go overseas, said Miss Isherwood, but said she could not hold out much promise of this at the moment, as all recruits are needed in building up the Canadian Women's Naval Service at home.

Chief Officer Isherwood and First Officer Taylor came to Canada a year ago and brought with them a wealth of experience from their close association with the Women's Royal Naval Service in Britain. Miss Taylor is a Canadian from Winnipeg, who was living in England at the outbreak of war when she joined the W.R.N.S. and later came to Canada.

Children Conduct Annual Rally at St. John's Church

Children under twelve years of age yesterday conducted the Columbia Diocesan Junior W.A. annual rally held at St. John's Church.

Prior to the meeting service was held in the church, conducted by Rev. G. Greenhalgh, of Langford.

The rally opened with a hymn followed by "Blossom Bells," sung very sweetly in harmony by members of the Good Hope Junior W.A. This branch, composed of Chinese children, is the latest group to be formed. Mrs. F. J. Brimer, diocesan president, welcomed the children and then presented badges to members of the Good Hope W.A.

"The Glory of the Quest," enacted by members of St. John's Juniors, proved an interesting play.

At the meeting which followed the chair was taken by Audrey Bith, and the meeting was conducted entirely by the children. The opening prayer was taken by Donna Freeman, and the Bible reading by Corrinne Fatt.

MUCH WORK ACHIEVED

Gloria Lee and Jean Porter conducted the roll call, and Patricia George extended a welcome to the guests. The annual report of the diocesan secretary, Mrs. R. C. Keane, was read by Maureen Caselton, and showed there were 307 members. Dorcas work comprised rag dolls and animals for Christmas cheer, and also for the bombed-out children in England; supplies for hospitals and knitted articles; dressed dolls and made-over Christmas cards; several scrapbooks were sent to the Columbia Coast Mission.

The Diocesan Banner was taken by Comox for the best all-round work and attendance.

Mrs. R. C. Keane, diocesan secretary, made a few remarks, and thanked Rev. George Biddle and officers of St. John's for the use of the church and hall for the rally. A vote of thanks was given by Marjorie Dodsworth to Rev. G. Greenhalgh and the organist, Mr. Ian Galliford. Anne Roy, of St. Mary's, Metchosin, expressed the thanks of the out-of-town branches.

The closing prayer was taken by Joan Wren, and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

It's interesting to recall today that in 1923 an Italian newspaper offered a prize for the best definition of Mussolini. The Duce stopped the competition. "As he himself does not know exactly what he is, it is exceedingly unlikely that anyone else will know," he told the editor.

That may have been true enough then, but the Italians know now—only they daren't say it.

COLUMBA UNIT

The Columba Unit of the Red Cross held a tea and sale of work, home cooking and plants on Wednesday afternoon in the Marigold Hall. The tea tables, with their vases of Spring flowers, looked most attractive. The stalls were well patronized, all articles being quickly sold. Mrs. Plater and Miss K. Brown presided over the apron and superfluity stall while Misses H. S. Milne and W. Seymour supervised the home cooking and plant stalls, the plants being kindly donated by Mr. Fox, of Marigold. Mrs. T. Whelden convened the tea and was ably assisted by Mrs. F. Mayfield, Mrs. R. Wilkinson, Mrs. J. C. Cummore, Mrs. J. A. Patridge, and Mrs. J. O. Little. Mrs. C. A. Berry, treasurer, was at the receipt of custom, while Mrs. F. Stacey, convener, and Mrs. T. W. Hall, secretary, received the guests. Representatives from Victoria were Lady Lake and Mrs. Grimson, of the Junior Red Cross. Mrs. H. S. Beckton and Mrs. W. Barton, of the Victoria branch. Other visitors from the city were Mrs. Alan Chambers and Mrs. F. C. Horn. Rev. Canon H. V. Hitchcox was also present. Lady Lake spoke of the Junior Red Cross work and of the valuable assistance rendered by teachers and parents. Mrs. Gordon Greenwood sang delightfully, "Summertime" and "Out of the Dusk," accompanied by Mrs. T. Raper. Mrs. D. Mansergh also gave great pleasure by her rendering of "Your England and You," her accompanist was Mrs. J. McWilliams. The receipts, to be devoted to the Red Cross, amounted to $42.

Girls Bring Slice Of Broadway to Isolated Soldiers

WITH A U.S.O. TROUPE IN ALASKA (Delayed) (AP).—By dog-sled, ambulance, go-devil, jeep, command car, mail and transport plane, U.S.O. Girls, Jo Andrews and Nancy Healy are bringing a slice of Broadway to isolated soldiers in Alaska.

For five months this pair has danced to keep goose pimples from running together while their hardy male audiences huddled in parka comfort.

The girls braved a forty-mile blizzard sweeping in from the Bering Sea to give their fourth show of one day. It was ten below zero.

A half-hour before their appearance, the man in charge shouted: "Please, men, don't stand on your benches, yet."

Blue-eyed Jo is from Brookline, Mass., while Nan, a former "Our Gang" comedy girl, is from Weehawken, N.J. The latter achieved considerable notice in 1936 when Rudolph Hess "commanded" her to tap dance at a military ball at which Hitler dominated the baldhead row. He asked one question: "Fraulein, do you Deutschland like?" to which she retorted, "Not for long."

Traveling through Alaska brings its troubles.

"Baths come when we get them," said Jo, wrinkling her nose. "Sometimes it's in a gallon can of water, or it may be a week later in an officer's shower while a sergeant stands guard at the door."

"Everywhere," Jo said, "men stare. The first time we stepped out of a plane in Alaska, a mechanic yelled, 'Wow, dames is here,' and in two minutes fifty stood around us and just looked. Most of them shifted to leeward to snuff up our perfume."

At one advanced camp the men got up in the mess hall and bunched around them. "Ma'am," Nan imitated a soldier's voice, "you'll just have to excuse us but we haven't seen a woman for fourteen months."

Armed Enemy Trawler Sunk

LONDON, April 29 (CP) — An armed enemy trawler was sunk off The Netherlands' coast by light British naval forces before dawn this morning during a brisk fight, it was announced officially today.

Coast forces under the command of Lieut. Peter Dickens were making an offensive sweep off the coast when the enemy trawler was met and engaged near Ijmuiden, an Admiralty communique said. The trawler was hit repeatedly and was seen to sink.

All the British ships returned to port and only one received superficial damage. There were no British casualties.

SINK TORPEDO BOAT

LONDON, April 29 (CP) — Albacores of the Fleet Air Arm under the Fighter Command sank at least one enemy motor torpedo boat and severely damaged others in a convoy of about twelve vessels off the French coast near Boulogne last night, the Air Ministry news service announced today.

Executives of Navy League Pay Visit to Victoria

Luncheon Tendered By Local Division

Paying a brief visit to Victoria and Esquimalt following the Dominion Council meeting in Vancouver, national executives of the Navy League of Canada were guests of the Victoria division during their stay here yesterday.

The party, which registered at the Empress Hotel, included David H. Gibson, president, who spoke at a luncheon meeting tendered the visitors at Prince Robert House.

Mr. Gibson gave a resume of the work done by the league throughout Canada, particularly the reprovisioning of victims of shipwreck and aid and entertainment provided to seamen.

The calls upon the league during the past three and a half years have been very heavy, he said. At times the pressure has been so great they had to have immediate action, yet funds were always forthcoming from friends of the league across the Dominion.

The Navy League, he pointed out, maintains twenty-two magnificent buildings, cares for sick and disabled seamen and provides comforts for countless men going to sea; women friends have furnished thousands of ditty bags.

SAYS FUTURE HERE IS UNCERTAIN

"The future of the Pacific Coast," Mr. Gibson told his audience, "is very uncertain, and if need arises, the Dominion Council is prepared to give all the help required."

C. F. Gray, manager of Prince Robert House, welcomed the visitors, and paid a special tribute to the women of Victoria who have worked unceasingly to give comforts to seamen.

Alderman John Worthington, in the absence of Mayor Andrew McGavin, extended a welcome from the city of Victoria. Captain R. W. McMurray, president of the Victoria division of the league, introduced the visitors.

Among the sixty-odd guests at the luncheon, all executives of the Navy League, were: Reg Dunlop and R. A. Major, Halifax; Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Nickerson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ingram, Saint John; R. C. Stevenson (co-ord. R.N. Sea Cadets), Montreal; Mrs. M. T. Bancroft, Quebec; Commander Jeffries, Colonel W. A. McBrien, Colonel A. E. Kirpatrick, Harry R. Gillard, H. A. Bergon and E. F. Trimble, of Toronto; J. R. K. Millen, Winnipeg; M. Hunter, Regina; Mr. McEachern, Saskatoon; E. W. Bowness, Calgary; Mrs. E. E. Morton, Vegreville, and W. S. Dixon, of Vancouver.

After inspecting Prince Robert House the visitors went on to the R.C.N. College, Hatley Park. In the evening they inspected the Rainbow Sea Cadets at Esquimalt.

Sends Messages to Thousands

This dramatic pose of pounding fingers at the telegraph instrument is symbolic of the messages which will be sent by hundreds of telegraph operators over Canadian wires during the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. Ninety-two thousand Canadian National Railways system employees across the Dominion have already received a similar message from their chairman and president, R. C. Vaughan, visiting Victoria, appealing to them to "back the attack and support the Fourth Victory Loan."

Halifax Naval Dock Workers Ask Increases

Seek 85 Cents an Hour and Bonus

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP) — The Affiliated Trade Union Council of the Naval Dockyard at Halifax today placed before the National War Labor Board its case for establishment of a wage rate of eighty-five cents an hour with cost-of-living bonus for skilled tradesmen. Maximum rates now in effect are eighty-five cents without bonus.

The unions also asked an increase of the present fifty-three-cent rate for helpers to sixty cents.

Judgment was reserved on the application.

The unions, all affiliates of the American Federation of Labor, were represented by J. W. Bruce, United Association of Plumbers and Steamfitters, and other delegates.

DENIED BONUS

Mr. Bruce, speaking for the group of unions, said the older employees of the yard were denied a cost-of-living bonus by a special order in council fixing the rate for new employees at eighty cents an hour with a weekly bonus of $1.25. The bonus was subsequently increased to $1.85.

The order had followed discussions between Labor Minister Mitchell and representatives of C.I.O. unions in a neighboring yard where lower rates were in effect and without consultation of the A.F. of L. unions, Mr. Bruce said.

In contrast to the restrictions faced by shipyard workers on the East Coast, Pacific Coast workers were allowed "bonus hours," being paid for more hours than they actually worked. In addition they received a week's holidays with pay, something not provided in the Halifax dockyard.

Mr. Coyle said living costs in Halifax had increased more than in Canada generally, making a bonus more important for workers in the area.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Men Born From 1902 to 1924 Must Prove Compliance With Mobilization Regulations When Asking Permits to Seek Employment

By order of the Minister of Labour, pursuant to National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, (P.C. 246, January 19, 1943) an important change is now made in regard to the issue by Employment and Selective Service Offices, of permits to seek employment.

After April 30, 1943, a permit to seek employment may be refused to any male person born in any of the years from 1902 to 1924, inclusive, who has reached age 19, unless such person presents satisfactory evidence that he has not contravened the provisions of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, Military Call-up Regulations). Evidence required is to be in one of the following forms:

(a) A certificate of discharge from His Majesty's Forces after service during the present war, or

(b) a rejection slip issued by the Army on application for enlistment; or

(c) a certificate of medical examination issued by the Registrar of a Mobilization Board, or

(d) a postponement order certificate issued by the Registrar of a Mobilization Board; or

(e) in the case of a male person born in any of the years from 1902 to 1916 inclusive, a statutory declaration on a form available in the employment office, that he is not a "single person" under Mobilization Regulations.

Documents referred to in (a), (b) and (c) above need be presented only the first time a permit is sought after April 30, 1943, unless subsequently asked for by a Selective Service Officer. Documents referred to in (c) and (d) above must be presented each time a permit is applied for.

Two points under the new Regulations are to be specially noted:

(1) Male persons applying for permits by mail should forward with their applications the evidence required (except (c) above).

(2) A Selective Service Officer MAY furnish a permit without first being handed evidence, where the applicant's services are required for immediate employment, or where a permit is asked for by mail, but in these cases the evidence must be presented to the Selective Service Officer later) usually WITHIN THREE DAYS of the issue of the permit.

All men, born from 1902 to 1924, who have reached age 19, are urged to co-operate with Employment and Selective Service Officers in this matter.

Help yourselves, help others applying for permits, help the Offices to function smoothly, by having your documents with you when needed.

"My job is to make floor coverings that will take hard traffic in stride and keep their good looks in spite of it; a sort of home-front morale job. And I'm putting everything I've got into it to make sure you get the extra value always built into Congoleum, value that means long wear and lasting beauty so urgently needed just now when floor covering replacements are so hard to obtain."

HOW TO HELP MR. GOLD SEAL MAKE GOOD

You can go added wear out of your Congoleum floors with very little effort. Brush and mop them regularly and renew the brightness of their surface with an occasional waxing. Make sure too, that the floor underneath is smooth and free from crevices or knobs. If it's a rug, move it every few months to "spread" the traffic. Yes, a little care will pay big dividends.

Scouts Praised By Government For War Duties

Plan Expansion of Movement in B.C.

Services of Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs on the salvage front, in protective services, and in the national finance campaigns have won the highest commendation from the Dominion Government, R. C. Stevenson, C. A., chairman of the Dominion executive board of the Boy Scouts' Association, said on his arrival here yesterday.

He voiced an appeal to the Scouts and Cubs of British Columbia to support the offer of service made by 90,000 Canadian Scouts and Cubs to the Government in connection with the Fourth Victory Loan.

"There is a job in the Victory Loan drive for every boy, as messenger, telephone attendant or distributor of loan literature," Mr. Stevenson said, suggesting that Scout leaders should offer the services of the boys in their charge to local loan committees.

IS CONNECTED WITH SEA SCOUTS

Mr. Stevenson, whose home is in Montreal, was recently re-elected chairman of the Dominion board at the annual meeting in Ottawa. He is also honorary vice-president of the Montreal Boy Scouts' Association; honorary commodore and chairman of the Sea Scout Committee of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, and co-ordinator of Sea Cadet activities for naval services in Canada. He is on a tour of Western Canada and is visiting provincial Scout headquarters in connection with plans for expansion of the Boy Scout movement in British Columbia.

The need for the expansion of the Scout movement in the interests of national service is apparent, Mr. Stevenson added, and he appealed to adults, both men and women, to offer their services for the duration as leaders and assistant leaders, to take the place of those on active service, as a form of valuable war service.

He praised the war work being done by the leaders and boys connected with the Scout movement in British Columbia and urged them to keep up their good work.

Let's Be Sensible About PAINTING . . .

YOUR home is a vital factor in Canada's war effort! It is good patriotism and sound sense to protect and repair your house and property for replacements are hard to get. Many building supplies are difficult or impossible to obtain, yet there are sufficient supplies of Sherwin-Williams Paints in your dealer's store, to preserve your property against deterioration.

You have to stay home more because of war conditions—so why not use this extra leisure time to make your house more attractive and valuable? Using Sherwin-Williams Paints is a double economy because they beautify as well as protect.

A Company Reports To Its Employees

The Story of the Founding and Financing of "One of Canada's Great Institutions"

The following report by Mr. S. G. Blaylock, president and managing director of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada Ltd., was prepared especially for Consolidated employees, but because of its wide interest, is made available to the general public. It outlines the history of this great institution and emphasizes the part the company and its employees are playing in the fourth year of Canada's war effort.

IN RECENT MONTHS THERE HAS BEEN A DECIDED increase in the propaganda against big companies, their profits and their war effort. They have been accused of profiteering and even of pilfering the public purse. Most of these stories spring from those who believe they can advance their own status either politically or financially by attacking the governments in power and the larger industries. Your own company has been among the targets of these attacks.

The tempo of this propaganda has advanced to the stage which would make one think that no honest companies or governments were left. This propaganda, together with the quite evident lack of knowledge many of our employees have of the company, would indicate that it is desirable at this time for me to make a report this year to you. This report will amplify, for your information, our directors' report to the shareholders.

I shall start with a brief review of the history of the company, commencing with its formation in 1906. At that time the struggling Canadian Smelting Works at Trail, owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway and consisting of a copper smelter, a lead smelter, lead refinery and gold and silver refineries, was dependent entirely on cutoms ore shipments. The mines were inclined to work when prices were high and shut down when they were low. Consequently, smelter operations and employment were very erratic.

In 1906 Mr. W. H. Aldridge, then General Manager, brought the main producing mines into a merger with the Smelting Works. The new company was to be known as The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada, Limited. A distribution was made of 48,988 shares of the new Consolidated stock among the following companies; the War Eagle, the Centre Star, the St. Eugene, the Richmond Eurkea, the Rossland Power Company and the Canadian Smelting Works in payment for their properties. Many millions of dollars had been spent on these properties and the 48,988 shares of a par value of $100 per share gave the new Consolidated company a most conservative financial position.

NOTHING PAID TO SHAREHOLDERS FOR YEARS.

Two years after the consolidation, dividends were discontinued and nothing was paid to the shareholders for five years. All profits made were ploughed back into the business. In 1909 the Sullivan Mine in East Kootenay, a property with a highly complex ore which had been mined for years, and part of that time by one of the largest and wealthiest mining companies in the world, but could not be made to pay by its owners, was optioned by the Consolidated at a low price. For 13 years a very costly experimental program was carried out by the Consolidated until the main metallurgical problem presented by the Sullivan ores was solved.

During World War I (1914-1918) the Electrolytic Zinc Process was developed by your Company jointly with the Anaconda Copper Mining Company. Subsequently, with the solution of the concentration problem of the Sullivan ores, the Company's financial horizon was brighter. When your company started to make electrolytic zinc in the last war the price for high grade zinc in the U.S.A. was 45c per pound. Our company contracted with the British Government to supply zinc at 14c a pound. The British Government advanced $600,000 towards the cost of the plant and the money thus advanced was repaid by deductions from the returns from this contract. At this time (the U.S.A. not yet being in the war) Anaconda entered into a contract to supply the British Government with zinc at 27c per pound.

At the commencement of the present war we contracted to sell to the British Government all of our zinc production in excess of Canadian requirements at approximately 3.34c per pound, f.o.b. Tadanac.

Outside of developing the Electrolytic Zinc Process your Company got very little out of its first World War zinc contract. The costs were nearly as great as the returns from sales, and had it not been for the development of the successful flotation treatment for Sullivan ore worked out at the old concentrator at Trail, it is unlikely that our Trail plant would be operating today.

NO MANIPULATION OF COMPANY'S STOCK.

Many millions of dollars were required to finance all this development work and construction. This money was obtained partly from earnings and partly from the sale of bonds which were later redeemed by the issue of shares at a premium. When it was considered advisable to enter the chemical field the money required for plants was secured by selling treasury stock at eight times the par value to the company's shareholders, i.e., a share of stock of $25 par value was sold for $200—approximately the then market price. The reason the original $100 shares had been divided one into four (at a par value of $25) was in order to simplify the exchange of shares with the owners of the West Kootenay Power & Light Company Limited when that company was taken over. I am giving you this picture of our financing so that it can be readily seen that there has been no manipulation of the company's stock.

More than $100,000,000 of earnings have been ploughed back into Consolidated's operations, in plant additions and extensions and in looking for new mines. For many years our luck in finding new mines was very bad. However, the Sullivan Mine and adjacent property continued to develop beyond all expectations.

The chemical plants which were more or less forced on the Consolidated Company to control the smoke nuisance which had involved international litigation, have turned the corner and now are a profitable venture. Their position in the post-war world is, of course, obscure at the moment.

Several gold mines have been brought into successful and profitable production in the last few years and the mercury mines, which have been developed since the outbreak of the present war, promise not only to be a Godsend to our own nation and our Allies but a profitable venture for our Company. The Red Rose tungsten mine, now entering production, will also help the war effort and may become profitable later on.

GOVERNMENT WAR PLANTS.

With the advent of the present war your Company offered its services to the Government to build and operate any plants they (the Government) might wish and for which, by training and experience, the staffs of your Company would be valuable to the war effort. Your Company also offered to build and operate such plants without profit. The interpretation of such contracts as have been entered into has been that the Consolidated Company was not "to make or lose a nickel" through this voluntarily war contribution.

Plants of a value of over $16,000,000 have been built and are being operated for the Canadian and United Kingdom Governments on this basis.

When the war is over these plants will remain the property of the Government and, if our Company wants or requires them to expand its operations, we will have to meet the price offered by the highest bidders.

I have dealt with our relations with our Canadian and British Governments in these wartime efforts in order that you may not be misled either by ignorant or malicious propaganda which generally sets out that our Company is either making big money now under these arrangements, or will do so later on by getting the plants as gifts at the end of the war.

As you all know, your Company has been short of power since the Government plants have been in operation at Trail. There was a surplus of 50,000 h.p. of electrical energy before they were built. These plants added about 57,000 h.p. to the load and took up all this reserve. In order that the necessary power might be made available at the earliest possible moment, I proposed to the Government that I would recommend to our directors that we should build a power plant at the Brilliant site on the Kootenay River. As this plant was made necessary to supply power to the new Government plants and as the cost of construction under war conditions was much higher than normal, and as the value of the plant during the post-war period was uncertain, we asked the Government for assistance by way of special depreciations. This assistance was granted under the War Exchange Conservation Act, 1940.

The principle of normal depreciation is recognized by all taxation authorities and the owners of capital assets in the form of plant, machinery and equipment, have always been permitted to deduct from their profits before they are taxed, annual amounts, depending upon the nature of the assets, calculated to retire the capital investment over its usual life. The special depreciation granted by the Government in the case of the Brilliant plant simply means that depreciation will be written off sooner than would otherwise be the case, and while the depreciation is being written off the Company will obtain certain tax credits. However, after the period of special depreciation, the taxes paid will be correspondingly higher and the Government will benefit accordingly.

In other words, the Government has simply assisted in financing the construction of the plant by foregoing temporarily taxes which they will recover later in whole or in part over subsequent years. As the power is sorely needed and as quickly as possible for war purposes, I am sure that any reasonable person will agree that the Government department concerned has made a good bargain and is entitled to praise rather than to criticism.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT SAVES ON CONTRACT.

Our main tonnage of lead and zinc has been contracted to the British Government at lower prices than those of any five-year average in history. All of our zinc in excess of Canada's needs is contracted to the United Kingdom at 3.34c per pound f.o.b. Tadanac. I would ask you to compare this with prices in the World War I (1914-1918), when a high of 45c per pound was demanded or with today's price for the same high grade of zinc in the U.S.A. of 9.25c per pound. We have contracted about 65% of our lead per year to the British Government at 2.770 per pound f.o.b. Tadanac and Canada gets its metal for war purposes at approximately the same price. Our contract provides for increased prices should costs increase over 5% in a calendar year. The U.S.A. price for lead today is 6.50c. The price during World War I (1914-1918) reached 12c.

It is only necessary to compare these prices to see that there is no grasping policy on our part nor grounds for any suggestion of profiteering. The British Government saves approximately $22,000,000 per year by purchasing from us and thus not being compelled to rely on the U.S.A. market. Furthermore, as the United States supply has been short, they could not supply the heavy British demand at any price. As a result of increased costs the present prices on our contract with the United Kingdom are: Zinc, 3.6c per pound; lead, 3.04c per pound.

ORE RESERVES SACRIFICED FOR WAR EFFORT.

Our Company is making good profits. We have never complained on that score, but the profits are being gained only by depleting our ore reserves at what, under normal circumstances, would be far too high a rate. However, we are more than willing to make this sacrifice as a contribution to the war effort. It must be remembered that while everything the Company uses costs us more than in normal times, its two most important products, from the production standpoint, are selling for less money than would normally be the case. Consequently the profit per pound is very low. Greater production and unlimited wartime market makes this possible. But do not forget that once ore is mined and the metal sold it is gone forever. You can not plant ore back in a mine as you would reforest a tract of timber or restock a body of water with fish!

In your case you are receiving more for your effort than in pre-war days, as the following tables compiled by our Industrial Relations Department will show:

Including working capital and the new Brilliant power project, your Company will have about $120,000,000 actual money invested in its operations. This large sum has either been furnished by the shareholders in cash or taken out of the earnings of the Company. It amounts to an investment of over $15,000 for every employee.

While we have had quite a good year after providing for necessary reserves, taxes and so on, only $8,189,552.50 was distributed to shareholders who numbered approximately 12,000. It must also be borne in mind that, by estimation more than half of this $8,189,562.50 will be taken as income taxes from the individual shareholders out of these dividends after they are distributed. It is interesting to note that they do not have a double tax of this kind in the United Kingdom.

WILL PROVIDE FOR EMPLOYEES AFTER WAR.

I would like to emphasize that the money which we have placed and may yet be able to place in reserve will form working capital with which to carry on in the post-war period when we anticipate we shall be confronted with many perplexing problems. In the post-war era sales may be slack, overhaul and improvements to plant will be necessary, and it may be that we shall require capital with which to purchase at least some of the wartime plants built for the Government and now owned by them. Expansion of this latter nature is, at the moment, in the lap of the gods, but we must be in a position to meet it if required.

This review of our operations has been prepared especially for our employees, and I ask you to peruse it carefully. It deals more specifically with what has been and is being done for you, our active working force, and, in anticipation, for those of our fellows who are offering their lives for us.

Our Company is determined that in the post-war period we shall be in a position not only to accept our responsibility towards those of our employees now members of the armed services, but it is determined that we shall be able to carry our fair share of the burden of readjustment. Every one of us wants to look forward to and strive for eventual better things in the coming world of Victory and Peace. With a great many others, I do not look for the millenium with the unconditional surrender of our enemies, which is the approved objective of our leaders in the present life-and-death struggle. There will be difficulties in that period of readjustment, and it is our duty to anticipate them.

The spirit of loyalty and co-operation which has been demonstrated so consistently throughout the year by all employees is much appreciated by the Directors.

It is my sad duty to record the death of our Chairman, Sir Edward W. Beatty, G.B.E., who throughout the years had an abiding and friendly interest in the affairs both of the Company and all of its employees.

In conclusion, I might express my complete agreement with and re-echo the sentiment of the Right Honourable Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, in his address to the British Commonwealth of Nations and to the world on Sunday, March 21st, 1943, when, among other great pronouncements, he said:

> "I have tried to learn from events and also from my own mistakes. And I tell you my solemn belief, which is that if we act with comradeship and loyalty to our country and to one another, and if we can make state enterprise and free enterprise both serve national interests, and pull the national wagon side by side, then there is no need for us to run into that horrible, devastating slump or into that squalid epoch of bickering and confusion which mocked and squandered the hard-won victory which we gained a quarter of a century ago.
> "I end where I began. Let us get back to our jobs."

April 14, 1943.

"What We Own, What We Owe and What We Are Worth"

A Balance Sheet always seems to be a complicated table which means little to any except financial experts. But very simply it is a statement of what we own, what we owe and what we are worth. It has nothing to do with our Sales or Income or how much money was received each year and divided among employees in wages, among stockholders in dividends, etc. It is exactly the same as if you took two sheets of paper and on one listed the cash you have, the value of your home, car and furniture, and the dollar "Jack Brown" owes you.

On the other you would list what you owe the grocer and the butcher, the amount you owe for the mortgage on your home and what you owe on the car. Then substract what you owe from what you own. The result is what you are worth, and what in the Company's Balance Sheet, on this basis is called Capital or Surplus. This may be entirely represented by Property or possibly by Property and Cash. This figure is placed on your second sheet. Thus the first sheet "what you own," and the second sheet "what you owe and what you are worth" balance exactly.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—The stock market rallied today as the President announced a strong position on the coal labor dispute.

Motors, rails, steels and aircrafts led the revival which came after [illegible] opening. Profit cashing appeared on the upswing, but dealings quickened in the final hour and favorites finished at or near the day's best levels with gains of fractions to a point or so.

Alleghany common led the active sprinters, coming out in the last few minutes on blocks of 10,000 to 20,000 shares and finishing with a net advance of 1-8 at 2.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up 4 of a point at 49.2, its first plus sign this week. The market was relatively broad, 899 individual issues being traded. Of these 585 were up, 122 down and 192 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,340,820 shares.

Earnings statements aided some climbers, but did little for others. Bethlehem Steel ended up 7-8 at 64 1-4.

Stocks in the "new high" division included Studebaker, Southern Pacific, American Telephone, International Telephone, Pennsylvania Coal, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft and United Air Lines. In front were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Montgomery and Ward, International Harvester, Eastman Kodak and General Electric.

Sees Little Incentive to Added Output

MONTREAL, April 29 (CP).—The Dominion Government has been "very wise in granting certain tax savings in connection with exploration expenses incurred in searching for base metals and strategic minerals," S. G. Blaylock said in his presidential address today at the annual meeting of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, Limited.

Mr. Blaylock added: "However, the present level of the excess profits tax and price controls make it difficult for mining companies to increase production of base metals from established mines. While the excess profits tax exempts the profits derived from the operation of new mines, there is no relief in connection with any profits arising from increased production from mines which have been in operation for about a year or longer."

As the exploitation of any ore body is definitely a one-crop operation, Mr. Blaylock declared, "it is evident that there is little incentive to the mining industry to increase the production of established base metal mines."

Mr. Blaylock reported that profits of the company for the first three months of 1943 were at the same rate as for the first quarter of 1942 and in fact were a little higher.

HIGHER VALUES IN SULLIVAN

Commenting on diamond drilling being carried out at depth on the east side of the fault on the eastern margin of the Sullivan Base Metal Mine in British Columbia, Mr. Blaylock said that two drill holes indicated a vein, about forty feet thick, with values higher than those in the ore now being mined.

These indications were of great importance, Mr. Blaylock stated, because any ore indicated east of this fault in the upper levels had been consistently low in grade.

Development results at the Red Rose Tungsten Mine continued to be very satisfactory, Mr. Blaylock remarked, and, owing to the importance of tungsten in the war effort, consideration was being given to another increase in production at the property.

Two of the new mercury prospects north of the Pinchi Lake property in British Columbia promised to develop into good mines, Mr. Blaylock said.

NO. 118—EIGHTY-FIFTH YEAR

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1943

Glancing Over — Sport —

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S WASHING

Victorians wondered if it was the truth when they read in yesterday's Vancouver Province that the Willows Arena was no more. The yarn, date-lined from New Westminster and written by my old friend Vic Andrew, bears no foundation. That the rink was to be taken over by military authorities. Your columnist got busy on the phone and denials came fast and furious and from left to right. First W. H. "Bill" Mearns, who would know if anybody did, denied it and then Doug Fletcher, head of the Island ice circuit, did the same. There was no use trying to contact Barney Olson, owner of the arena, as he is traveling back here with the Army Hockey Club from Calgary, which, by the way, is booked to arrive home this afternoon . . . Sorry, Vic, old fellow, except something unforeseen happens, we will be playing hockey in the same building next season and Victorians will do their skating there also. However, your story started rapid fire gossip throughout the city, if nothing else . . . After all the ballyhoo about Phil Marchildon, last season with the Philadelphia Athletics' pitching staff, being here in the R.C.A.F., officials from the airport who are connected with the ball club stated yesterday that the ex-big leaguer was not in the vicinity. When questioned about Marchildon, one R.C.A.F. official said, "If he was here I wouldn't even talk to you! . . . The origin of the story first came over the C.B.C. The announcer that particular Saturday afternoon said, "Attention, you sport fans out there on Vancouver Island. Phil Marchildon, leading pitcher with Connie Mack's Athletics, has joined the air force and has been posted on Vancouver Island." That broadcast came straight from Toronto. The Province even ran his picture on the sports page the other day in an R.C.A.F. uniform.

ODDS AND ENDS

[illegible] dropped into the office to let me know that John Sweeney, another track star in those days around this city and former sports editor of The Evening Post, was now in Kansas City, having moved from Philadelphia several years ago. We had Brasley, Vail, Wilsby and Sweeney. In 1908 we cleaned up all the Island titles worth winning and then went to Vancouver and swept the British Columbia championships. He recalled Frank told about the time he won the five-mile event in the old Assembly Hall which was located on Fort Street. Stanley Danlah champion, and Rowan, of Nanaimo, ran in that event. To complete the distance the boys had to run around the hall 200 times as there were forty laps to the mile. The Assembly Hall, home of roller skaters in those days, burned to the ground many years ago and was never rebuilt.

No Truth in Arena Story

Mearns Denies Rink Is Taken

You can bet that story I never heard anything about it and I certainly would have been informed if such a move was under way, stated W. H. Mearns, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association when questioned yesterday concerning a story which appeared in The Vancouver Province on Thursday which said that the Willows Arena was to be taken over by the Army authorities. The story went in part: "Against strong opposition in Victoria and will join the Coast League and will make the swing to Vancouver and New Westminster every two weeks while playing one home game at the Coal City each week. The 'dope' was spread the same [illegible] Monday nights game between Montreal Canadiens and Victoria Navy. It came from good sources. Hastings Forum in Vancouver will be back in hockey next Winter and will probably be available for lacrosse before the Summer is much advanced.

When Founder Doug Fletcher of the Vancouver Island Hockey League was informed of the Mainland story he said he had heard nothing about it. "[illegible] in it. Sure, officials of the league would be notified if the Army had any intention of taking over the rink. Hockey games here are already making plans for next season and they would be doing that if there was any foundation to that story," stated Fletcher.

Victoria Flyers Facing Windsor

Canadian senior men's basketball finals will open in Vancouver, May 5, if Windsor (Ont.) Patricks accept the invitation from Victoria R.C.A.F., Charles McLachlan, of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, announced here tonight.

Patricks, Eastern champions, have been guaranteed all expenses and it is almost certain they will agree to come West for the three-of-five-game finals, Mr. McLachlan said.

For the first time the men's and women's titles will be decided on the same card, as a Winnipeg team has agreed to come to Vancouver to meet Vancouver Hedlunds in the Canadian senior women's finals. Hedlunds won the title last year.

Mr. MacLachlan said the money to provide the men's guarantees was provided by private individuals and the series will be under the auspices of the Vancouver War Loan Committee.

All games in the men's and women's series will be played in Vancouver, with games scheduled for May 5, 7, 8, 10 and 11.

Will Clear Situation

Proposed Boxing Event in South

LOS ANGELES, April 29 (CP) — The California Athletic Commission tonight sanctioned a proposed Summer boxing tournament in Los Angeles to determine the world's lightweight title.

Everett Sanders, of the Commission, sought approval of the tournament from Abe Green, president of the National Boxing Association. George Parnassus, manager of Juan Zurita, Mexican champion, at once posted a guarantee with the commission to fight any one of the claimants to the crown.

Indications were that Zurita would meet Luther (Snugger) White, Baltimore negro, who seems to have reached his top form in the initial contest.

Other contenders who would be invited to participate are Sammy Angott, who retired as champion. While Jackie Gardner, Ind. negro, who holds a decision over Henry Armstrong, and Bob Montgomery, and Beau Jack, champion of New York State, are the lightweight titleholders.

The NBA, in its recent ratings, elevated the lightweight championship vacant and listed Angott, Jack White, Jackie Mandaglia and Zurita as the outstanding contenders.

Chief Ranger Morin and his deputy said the cars were teetering on the bank of a swamp at a 30-degree angle.

"Fearful that fire might break out I pushed to the car ahead of the passengers. I had to smash open the door. By then Lorne Mantle and I climbed into the first car and we started knocking out windows and putting people through."

STOCKHOLM, April 29 (AP) — The Foreign Office announced today that three bombs from an unidentified plane fell at 1 a.m. on the island of Vaxsten outside the Swedish naval base of Karlskrona.

The Anti-Aircraft Defence Command began an investigation of the bomb fragments to see either to determine the nationality of the plane.

A communique said the plane came from the east, dropped a parachute flare and then dropped the bombs.

Karlskrona lies on the Baltic 290 miles by rail southwestward of Stockholm. It had been the headquarters of the Swedish Navy since 1680. The city has a navy arsenal and hospital. Its drydocks are cut out of solid granite.

Montreal Track Is Closed Up

MONTREAL, April 29 (CP) — The Montreal Jockey Club, because of financial difficulties has decided to suspend its racing activities at the Blue Bonnets track here this year, but there were indications today that the closed might be leased to other interests.

"There will be racing in Quebec. We need not take any forward steps until we know what Mrs. Joseph Carrarrinon, who controls the stock of the Jockey Club, planned to do. Now that we know we can go ahead and make our plans."

Mr. Gorman coupled his statement with an announcement that Connaught Park Jockey Club in Ottawa would operate July 31 to August 14 and that an association meeting would be held May 10 to decide dates for Montreal, Royal and Kings Park.

A Spot of Tea - and a Cigarette

sketched at sea by Player's artist, "Topside"

EVERY meal on a Canadian destroyer at sea is spiced with adventure. For beyond the porthole, always blacked-out, is the wind-whipped surface of the sea—and, underneath the surface of that sea (who knows how near?) are the deadliest "fish" that ever skulked and struck. In this sketch from life, "Topside", commissioned by the makers of Player's Cigarettes, through the courtesy of the Royal Canadian Navy, sketches officers as they relax over a cup of tea in the wardroom and enjoy a well-earned smoke.

BUSINESS enriches the NATION and YOU

Free Enterprise versus Regimentation

BUSINESS under State control and business freely cooperating with Government are two vastly different propositions. The productive powers of free enterprise among the United Nations, as opposed to regimented industry under Axis domination, are now outpacing State regimented business.

Existing plants have been converted 100% to fighting materials—equipped, tooled and manned. New plants have swung into full production. Tremendous quantities of materials now roll in train loads from the factories of freedom.

Free enterprise has put Patriotism ahead of profits . . . Victory ahead of every other consideration. It is enabling the United Nations to show the might of voluntary initiative as opposed to a dictated regimentation.

This Bank knows what free enterprise—both management and labour—is doing, because banks play their part in financing Canada's industries. Your savings, at the Bank of Toronto, earn interest for you . . . and where employed by business they also work for Victory.

Sugar Requests Still Received By Local Board

Late Applicants May Go Without

Table applications for jam making and fruit preserving sugar are still being received at the office of the ... although April 15 was the closing date. Board members stated yesterday it was doubtful whether late applicants would receive any sugar.

The request of the board for 915,425 pounds of extra sugar to supply the requirements of 42,095 residents of the city and Oak Bay arrived at Ottawa on April 21.

The local ration board is still endeavoring to deal with 300 application forms not filled in properly, and in some cases as many as five letters have been sent to individual applicants in an attempt to correct errors.

Postcards each containing four sugar ration coupons have been made ready for mailing by the board before the end of May when the Wartime Prices and Trade Board decides on the amount to be issued to each applicant. One-quarter of the total amount to be allowed will be granted in June, July, August and September.

Members of the board will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning to discuss the provision of regular office hours and appointment of a permanent secretary.

To Debate Hiring Of Women Police

Members of the City Police Commission will meet at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon to discuss a suggestion of Commissioner W. H. Davies that women police officers be hired.

Views on the question will be presented by Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, and Benjamin Ackerman, revenue officer.

Cannot Oust Tenants For Summer Holidays

Judge H. H. Shandley has stated in the rental control court that owners of Summer homes who rent their premises throughout Autumn, Winter and Spring cannot require tenants to vacate premises to allow owners possession for Summer holidays.

In the rental control court last Wednesday an owner was refused permission to take over for the Summer his dwelling that had been rented during Winter and Spring.

New Records Set in North Atlantic Crossings by Air

One Trip From Newfoundland to the United Kingdom Made in Six Hours, Twenty Minutes

MONTREAL, April 29 (CP).—The Royal Air Force Transport Command broke wartime secrecy today to disclose a series of new records for North Atlantic flying, including a landfall-to-landfall flight from Newfoundland to the United Kingdom in six hours and twenty minutes.

Previously a few individual records had been announced. The Transport Command, formerly known as the R.A.F. Ferry Command, but this was the first disclosure of record times for the whole North Atlantic service, including the best performances for flights between various points along the route.

The Newfoundland-United Kingdom landfall-to-landfall mark was set recently by Captain W. E. May, formerly of Winnipeg and now living in the Atlantean town of Mount Royal, who flew much of the entire course, 2,200 statute miles, in daylight and at about 20,000 feet. He

Chemainus Flyer, Scrammy McGladrey, Has a Hot Time

In Burning Bomber With Extinguisher That Won't Work, He Tosses Flaming Material Out

WITH THE R.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 29 (CP).—A Halifax had just dumped its bombs on Stettin, Germany, and was wheeling for home when there was a terrific explosion inside the bomber, and it twisted through the night sky out of control, "full of fire and smoke."

[illegible] bombs from another [illegible] One exploded in the en[illegible] and [illegible] exploded in a gas tank [illegible] safely.

The story was told here by the [illegible] P/O W. R. Sheets of Ridgeway, Ont., who said a bomb pierced through the fuselage [illegible] the explosion all the soup afire and with his clothes ablaze and most of the controls useless [illegible] checked the crash [illegible] He managed to bail out [illegible] speed up and [illegible] his port and starboard engines.

Other members of the returning crew are F/L D. R. G. Morrison of Vancouver, F/O G. G. Scrammy McGladrey of Chemainus, B.C., Pilot Officer Bebensee of Toronto and [illegible] G. F. D. Murray of Montreal.

Two other crew members baled out after the fire started. Sheets said that when the explosion occurred, he thought it a direct flak hit.

"Something hit right behind my seat and exploded in Bebensee's compartment below," he continued. "Luckily he had come up to stand behind me about thirty seconds before it happened.

"Most of the instruments were knocked out and my oxygen was afire.

"We went into a spiral dive. The controls were useless and I gave orders to bail out. We had lost 1,000 feet when I found I could steer by gunning and throttling back the motors on alternate sides.

"As we veered all over, Scrammy was beating out the flames and Bebensee working on the controls. Finally we got some control in order that we landed without sudden control. Bebensee did a grand job."

Morrison said that on the order to bail out he looked over the side and "saw a lovely mess of fires and flak" and decided to wait a while.

DECIDED TO STICK AROUND

"Scrammy had thrown his chute at the fire and decided to stick it out down on my chute. While he was trying to fasten himself to my chute the skipper got the kite under control, and we decided to stick around."

McGladrey did most of the work putting the fire out and laughed when he recalled that he could not get the fire extinguisher to work. "While the flames roared around him he took out a flak light and read the instructions on the side of the extinguisher.

"Still I couldn't get the blasted thing to work so I peeled off my mitts and

Then he grabbed the burning [illegible] by handfuls and threw it overboard.

"I didn't get burned," he said. "I was wearing gloves."

Building Naval Base in China

CHUNGKING, April 29 (AP).—The Japanese are building a new naval base and large air fields on Hainan, a spokesman for the Chinese Ministry of Information said at a press conference today.

The islands, strategically situated in the approaches to their shipping by Allied submarines, he said, have become the distribution of a naval base at a [illegible] occupied island northeast of Foochow. He said that the Japanese were using Q-boats—ships disguised as fishing travelers and ready for quick action against unsuspecting prey.

The enemy is building one large air field near the Burma Road town of Lungling, possibly for intensified action against air bases in South China and another near the Yangtze town of Ichang, presumably for operations against Chungking, the spokesman reported.

He linked the Japanese drive against the Taihang Mountains with the enemy's "repeatedly announced intention of converting North China into a base for his operations in the Pacific."

V.M.D. Employees Hear War Loan Speakers in Yard

More than 1,200 employees at the V.M.D. No. 2 plant comprising two shifts, listened to Flying Officer J. F. Kissinger, D.F.C., tell of his bombing activity in the Mediterranean and other war experiences and the external background of the brief and now commonplace press reports of air activity.

Also appearing on the programme sponsored by the National War Finance Committee in aid of the Fourth Victory Loan was Rev. L. M. Chatterbridge, R.C.N. chaplain, who told the employees of the ruthlessness of the Japanese as enemies.

Drawing on his twenty-three years spent in the Orient, Mr. Chatterbridge said he was not surprised at the recently announced execution of American bomber crews forced down in Japan.

Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Public Works, spoke briefly in support of the Victory Loan drive. The meeting was attended by a representative group of Victoria citizens.

Wings Presented

YORKTON, Sask., April 29 (CP).—Wing Cmdr. W. R. Irwin, acting officer commanding No. 31 Service Flying Training School, R.C.A.F., presented wings to another large class of pilots graduating today.

Among the graduates were F. J. Glazier, Vancouver; H. A. Melton, West Vancouver; J. E. Porter, Victoria; F. W. Greenwood, New Westminster.

McHughen was a member of the Reserve, Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve.

His next-of-kin was listed as his mother, Mrs. Mary McHughen, Sudbury.

HELP CANADA KEEP FIT

IT TAKES MORE than a uniform to make an airwoman . . . proper food plays a vital part in the process.

THIS IS WHY all men and women in military service get suitable amounts of the health-protective foods. Our Nutrition Authorities also ask us, as civilians, to eat "protective" foods, including a whole grain cereal every day.

NABISCO SHREDDED WHEAT is a whole grain cereal. 100% whole wheat with all the goodness and food energy of Canada's world-famous wheat. Serve Nabisco Shredded Wheat for Fitness . . . save War Savings Stamps for Victory!

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

Brush Bristles from a Test Tube?

Sounds fantastic—but it is a fact.

Modern chemistry has devised a material that makes better brush bristles. It's called nylon monofilament, and when compared with animal and vegetable brush bristles—it's a tremendous step forward.

Nylon monofilament is extruded from nylon polymer, a plastic produced by chemistry from coal, air and water. Nylon bristles are tough, highly resistant to water, chemicals, cleansers, abrasives, they will not split, fray or become brittle. That's why you'll find these bristles in use on many different types of brushes . . . brushes to clean the big guns, brushes for shell fuses, the myriad brushes used by modern industry. Chemistry has even developed tapered bristles for paint brushes. These, of course, are not as yet available for civilian use. More than likely, your new toothbrush or hairbrush has nylon bristles.

Of course, war needs have first call on present production of nylon monofilament bristles, but they are certainly something to look forward to after the war.

Nylon monofilament from the Plastics Division of C.I.L. is another example of how Industrial Chemistry is aiding Canada's war effort.

"Dina Cashman"
By KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER XVI

Dina returned to find her mother mixing quick biscuits. For twenty years [illegible] had pieced the frugal Ethel Cashman whipped together for her children, and she made them expertly and well.

"Tom coming back?" she asked.

"He can't. He's starting for Westwood right away. But he's taken another job; he's going to be in south San Francisco," Dina said, her back to her mother.

"Fevvens sakes," Ethel murmured [illegible] too deeply interested. "When's he come down?"

"Thursday." He had reminded her of this in parting. He had said that she must make her plans to leave at once for the East. If Vere positively was at Yale, then she must go to New Haven; Tom would find out all the necessary details, [illegible] transportation and be ready to buy her ticket. Dina must meanwhile telephone Vere's family and find out his address.

Her soul was shrinking within her at the prospect. "If I had a hundred dollars," Dina thought, "I'd simply get on a bus and go somewhere. I'd disappear."

Suppose I took it from Tom? But he'd never give it to me. He'll buy my ticket and put me on the train and wire Vere that I'm coming. He's [illegible] like me—he'll never respect me again.

"Other girls do [illegible] than this. Lots of them. College girls and girls like Vere's sister too! Wait!

A sudden gleam had shot across her thoughts. Something had reminded her of Vere's mention of an uncle. The uncle who was not married, who was going to leave his property to Vere.

Wouldn't such an uncle be interested enough, be generous enough to tell her now what would be the wisest thing for her to do? What had Vere said the name was? Robert Rogers, Rogers. That was it! Rogers Holland. But now, how to find him!

. . . . . .

Is Mr. Holland in? Miss Cashman. By appointment.

Dina rather faltered the last words. For the butler was a [illegible] and formidable creature, and the atmosphere of the house itself was enough to daunt the stoutest heart.

Mr. Holland was in his library, seated at a large flat-top desk. Dina, for no reason whatsoever, had expected to see a spare, scholarly [illegible] man. Instead she found herself in the presence of a person not more than thirty-eight or forty years of age, a fat, eye-glassed, smiling man with thinning fair hair, who gave the impression of rolling in his chair.

He had been working at a stamp collection, stamps, pale pink, faint green, orange, were segregated in little groups all about him.

A spider and an owl and a frog! Dina thought.

He half rose from his chair as she appeared, sank back.

"You'd like to do secretarial work and you've had no experience but you could learn?" he asked.

No. No, she said, sitting down opposite him. "I don't think, when I telephoned, that I said anything like that."

"What did you say? Hina—that's the old feller who let you in—gave me the message. Who told you I wanted a secretary, anyway? Ever see a stamp collection before? Anyone who wanted to help me would have to know something about stamps. See that feller? Two hundred in the world like him, no more. That little bit of paper's worth ten thousand smacks."

"I'd no idea that any one stamp was worth ten thousand dollars," Dina said, impressed in spite of herself.

"Man offered a million for a stamp once," Rogers answered, narrowing his eyes triumphantly as he looked up from his magnifying glass. "Well, well, well," he [illegible], sitting back. "Let's have it. What's it all about?"

"It's about Vere," Dina said faintly.

"Vere?" He looked up sharply, taken unawares. "What's Vere been up to? You mean my nephew?"

"He and I were friends," she said, "and then before Christmas he went away, and I don't think he knows—I've had no answer to my letters for more than a month. And I have to find him!"

The inflection on the last phrase told the story. Rogers Holland looked steadily at his caller for a silent minute when Dina had finished speaking and then commented, easy with a brief "Ha!" But he laid aside his magnifying glass and settled back in his chair with an air of sudden attention.

He asked a few short questions. How long had they known each other? Where was the boy now? Back at Yale, he?

"That's his father's doing," he commented. "Van can't wait to get the boy into his New York office, partly to get away from Caroline. You know Caroline, my brother Van's wife?"

No. I don't know who she is.

Counsel Says R.C.A.F. Boat Failed Duty

Might Have Aided Northholm Victims

VANCOUVER, April 30 (CP).—A Marine Court of Inquiry into the loss of the steamer Northholm off the North Coast of Vancouver Island, January 16, with loss of fifteen lives, adjourned today after hearing counsel for the family of one of the victims declare the R.C.A.F. failed in its duty in not sending a boat to the scene promptly.

F. D. Pratt, representing George Nordstrom, Sr., whose son went down with the ship, declared: "We would not have had this appalling loss of life" if the R.C.A.F. [illegible], B.C. Star had not [illegible] for more than an hour at Cape Scott, about one mile from the sinking, where it arrived at 4.30 p.m., January 16.

Pratt said a lifeboat carrying eight men, six of whom died later from exposure, remained in the vicinity of the sinking until [illegible] 2.30 p.m.

Mr. Justice Sidney Smith, who presided at the inquiry, said its report would be released in due course.

The Crown contended the ship sank because she was overloaded and the cargo was improperly stored, rendering her unseaworthy. Today J. V. Clyne, counsel for Union Steamships Ltd., owners of the vessel, contended "the Crown's evidence was based entirely on conjecture." He claimed indications were the cargo did not shift until after the vessel developed a list, and suggested the sinking could have been caused by a leak.

CLAIMS ATMOSPHERE OF PREJUDICE

Clyne declared that the Crown attempted to create an atmosphere of prejudice in the case against his clients and alleged that the inquiry had developed into a prosecution.

The Crown, he pointed out, had stated when the inquiry started that it based its [illegible] on the fact that the Northholm was unstable, that its cargo was improperly stowed and that the load shifted.

"[illegible] the Crown has produced no evidence, no concrete evidence, to prove any of these facts," Clyne stated. "The Crown's evidence is based entirely on conjecture."

The last witness to be heard was First Officer Ray Perry, who testified that a lifeboat with eight men in it might have reached the safety of Vancouver Island had an attempt been made.

What Today Means

TAURUS

If April 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date will be from 9.15 to 11.15 a.m., from 1.15 to 3.15 p.m. and from 7.15 to 9.15 p.m. The danger periods will be from 7.15 to 9.15 a.m., from 5.15 to 7.15 p.m. and from 9.15 to 11.15 p.m.

Stubbornness will prove far more harmful than helpful on April 30, so think twice before you indulge in it. Prudishness will cause many people to become intensely disliked, and it may [illegible] persons to go out of their way to show their resentment, so avoid appearing to be painfully precise or smugly [illegible]. The more unaffected and natural you are the more friends you will make. To avoid making mistakes do not be in too much of a hurry to listen to what is being said to you, particularly if it involves directions or instructions regarding a complicated situation. Married and engaged couples, as well as those victims of Cupid's darts, may find it helpful to remember that inconsistencies of opinion arising from changes of circumstances are often justifiable and should not be resented.

If you are a woman and April 30 is your birthday be careful that a dislike for throwing things away does not result in an accumulation of worthless junk that will prove burdensome with the passing of years. Only adjusting your time properly will you ever be able to accomplish the things you want to do. As a real estate stock or insurance broker, dietitian, trained nurse, writer, news reporter, actress, business manager, secretary, musician, artist, stenographer, [illegible] mechanic or government employee, your earnings should be large and your results most gratifying. If you give the proper consideration to the claims your husband has upon your time and affection your married life should be filled with happiness.

The child born on April 3 craves loving attention and will [illegible] repay it in numerous ways. A little [illegible] at times stimulate this youngster's efforts, so parents never should withhold it. Initiative and hard work should cause the mature efforts of this youngster to result in unusual success.

If you are a man and April 30 is your natal day, inspirations often may cause you to do the right thing at the right time and often enjoy results. As an actor, publisher, editor, author, chemist, manufacturer, inventor, clergyman, artist, promoter, publicity man, agriculturist, politician, educator, musician, painter or as an active participant in the present war, your accomplishments are apt to be outstanding.

Nazis Say U.S. Building Giant Base in Alaska

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—The Berlin radio said today the Japanese have reported the United States is speeding construction of a giant Alaskan air base for "more than a thousand four-engine bombers" and declared "it is assumed in Tokio that the Americans intend to attack the Japanese mainland via the Aleutian and Kurile Islands."

There was no Allied confirmation of such construction.

Recorded by The Associated Press, the broadcast said that the "enemy's preparations are observed in Japanese quarters with the greatest attention as American statements of future bombardments of Japanese territory are taken absolutely seriously."

The [illegible] report described the American base as located at Anchorage.

This is the second reference by Axis broadcasts in three days to what they called United States activity in Alaska and the Aleutians. On Tuesday the Japanese radio reported a strong concentration of United States bomber and fighter squadrons in that area.

Pays Tribute To Canada's War Efforts

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, today sat in the main conference room at the Ministry of Information and traced for [illegible] ents the growth of Canada's war effort.

Seated beside Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, Mr. MacDonald told in cold statistics of the contribution the Dominion is making, but he emphasized he was not just paying a tribute to Canada.

"I speak with a great deal of emotion," he said, as he described how people from coast to coast were contributing everything possible toward victory and added that only by visiting the country itself could people form an idea of the Canadian effort.

He praised the Dominion's fighting services and complimented the army on the patience it has shown during the long wait in Britain. They had been held here, he said, "on advice of the highest military authority" and said that when the time came they would no doubt show qualities as great as any troops in the world.

Heavy Halibut Catches Continue

SEATTLE, April 29 (AP).—Heavy halibut catches continued today as thirteen vessels brought 255,000 pounds of fish to the Seattle Fish Exchange. The catches brought from 19 to 24½ cents a pound, slightly higher than yesterday, but far below the early season's peak of 36¾ cents.

Ocean Wave May Win the Derby Despite Favorite, Count Fleet

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Sports Editor

WOULD you consider us wacky if we suggested that you don't overlook a Wave when you're picking your Kentucky Derby winner—or have you quit sparring around and decided that no horse can [illegible] against Count Fleet?

The Wave we're sandbagging is Ocean Wave, who may engulf the whole Kentucky Derby field at Churchill Downs.

Ocean Wave, you may have heard, is a sleek, speedy colt, sired by the same pappy who fathered Whirlaway, the greatest money-winning horse to hoof it on the nation's tracks. Ocean Wave, you also may have heard, has compiled a pretty impressive record after getting a late start last year and currently is ranked as one of the few horses who may give the great Count Fleet a battle for the $75,000 pot of gold at historic Churchill Downs.

JONES IS TRAINER

And, to help out the Wave's cause, let it be said here and now that Ben Jones, the wizard trainer, who already has saddled two Kentucky Derby winners, is the trainer of the chestnut-coated half-mother of Whirly. Ben Jones led Larwin into the winner's circle at Churchill Downs in 1938 and followed three years later with the great Whirlaway.

Ocean Wave lost some caste earlier this Spring when he was the overwhelming favorite in the New Orleans Handicap and the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans and Hot Springs and then was beaten. Amber Light, a front-running speed demon, who also is a respectable Derby candidate, just nipped the Wave by a nose in that one, although some said a wee bit longer distance and the Wave would have caught him.

BEAT NO WRINKLES

Then, in the Arkansas Derby, the Wave again was a big favorite to click. Seven Hearts, the Brown Hotel stable's hope in the Derby, roomed out in front at the start, kept going under the expert handling of Jockey Johnny Adams, and whipped the Wave again.

Since then, however, Ocean Wave has moved to Louisville and in his first start a week ago took the measure of No Wrinkles, a classy colt who is Derby-minded, in a driving photo-finish after No Wrinkles had fronted the Wave to the wire.

Ocean Wave can run on any kind of a track. He had had the benefit of Winter racing, having run up three victories in a row this season at New Orleans prior to having been beaten in New Orleans Handicap.

As a two-year-old last year, Ocean Wave started nine times, winning five and finishing second once, being out of the money only three times. In six starts this year he has been first four times and second twice!

Ocean Wave met Count Fleet once last year, the Count beating him by two lengths. But this was before Ocean Wave really began to run.

Senator Leaves War Labor Board

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP). — Labor Minister Mitchell announced tonight that Senator J. J. Bench, K.C., of St. Catharines, Ont., has resigned from the National War Labor Board and that Leon Lalande, of Montreal, has been appointed to succeed him.

Mr. Mitchell said in a statement that Mr. Bench, who is thirty-seven, had accepted appointment as a member of the board when it was reorganized last February only because of the necessity at that time of a prompt reconstitution of the board to deal with urgent matters then pending.

There was an understanding that, after the disposition of these matters and the choice of a successor, Senator Bench would resign.

SAY JOB FULL-TIME

Mr. Mitchell said the work of the board was now a full-time undertaking for its members, and that it was recognized at the time of the appointment that it would not be possible for Senator Bench to continue on the board indefinitely and also discharge his duties as a member of the Senate as well as maintain his law practice, which is "very closely associated" with many essential war industries.

Mr. Lalande, a graduate in law of the University of Montreal, studied at the School of Commerce and Finance at the University of Detroit. He is a member of the Ontario and Quebec bars, and has practised at Windsor, Ont., and Montreal.

Through his work as solicitor to the ration administration of the Prices Board, he has been connected with the overall policy of wage and price control.

IN SWITZERLAND

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, seventy-five-year-old commander-in-chief of the Finnish army forces, was reported in a Stockholm dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio today to be in Switzerland "for reasons of health." The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, quoted the newspaper Svenka Dagbladet as the source of the dispatch and said that, after terminating his cure, the marshal would return home and resume his duties.

WOULD GO TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—An aide to Senator Edward Robertson (Rep., Wyo.) said today the senator had been advised that 80 per cent of a group of Japanese interviewed at the Hart Mountain relocation centre at Cody, Wyo., favor returning to Japan.

Fighter Planes Fly Oceans to Scene of Action

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—Mass flights of Lightning fighter planes now are spanning the oceans en route to war fronts under their own power, the United States Army reported today, the first such flight having been made by "a number of planes running well into three figures."

Out of all the planes that made the first transoceanic hop only one was lost at sea. Six others made bad-weather landings and were damaged, but their pilots were rescued.

Since then, large numbers of the twin-engined Lockheed Lightnings have been delivered under their own power from the factory in California to the combat zones in Europe and Africa, releasing shipping space for other cargo.

Although the Lightning is a long-range fighter, it can make the transAtlantic hop only by using an extra gasoline supply carried in releasable tanks fastened to the underside of the wings.

Joint Committee

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—An agreement between Mexico and the United States to create a joint committee to formulate a programme for economic co-operation after making a study of international payments between the two countries, was announced tonight by the State Department.

The agreement to create an economic committee made up of two representatives from each country, the department said, was a result of the reciprocal visit made by President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho respectively in Mexican and United States territory last week.

The object of the recommendation for measures to regulate and adjust international payments between the two countries was declared to be to insure the stability of Mexican production of strategic material and to prevent a lessening in their quantities.

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Eric A. Johnson, president of the Brown Johnston Company, Spokane, Wash., was re-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today at the closing session of its thirty-first annual convention.

Four Tickets Divide Prize

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 29.—A "kitty" of $80,000 awaited division today among four entries in the annual guessing contest on the day and minute the ice begins to move in the Tanana River.

The ice stopped the automatic clock at Nenana at 7:22 p.m. yesterday. None of the guesses entered in the contest was for the exact time. Three of the winners guessed 7:21 and one listed 7:23.

The tickets of the lucky guessers bore these names: August Juntenen and Marjo Lester, of Anchorage; "Foster Pool," of Juneau; Allen W. Less, Fairbanks, and "21 Men," with a Fairbanks address.

The annual guessing contest is one of the territory's major Winter and Spring indoor sports.

MORE AMBERGRIS

WITH THE UNITED STATES FLEET, South Pacific, April 29 (AP).—War, says an engineer officer, has stepped up production in at least one non-essential field. Whales, he said, are being tickled by submarine soundings into giving off large amounts of ambergris, a valuable stomach secretion used in expensive perfumes. But, the officer added, everybody is too busy fighting to gather it.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

RECRUITS ARE NOW EXAMINED FROM EMOTIONAL AND MENTAL STANDPOINTS

One great improvement of the examination of recruits in this war, as compared with the last, is the X-ray examination of the chest. By this means, previous attacks of bronchitis and even tuberculosis can be detected and the recruit is rejected for overseas service and left to do war or other useful work on the home front. Many of these cases cannot be detected by other methods of examination.

An even greater improvement in the physical examination of recruits over that of the last war is in watching recruits carefully in an effort to detect any nervous, emotional or behavior symptoms that would be aggravated by war activities and thus make a pensioner out of an otherwise useful citizen.

As president of a medical board in the last war I realized too late that not knowing the background of the recruit, we accepted him for service if he had no physical defects and was reasonably intelligent. Many of these men could have told us or their physicians could have told us that they could not stand up emotionally to active warfare. If a man has behavior difficulties in peace time, these difficulties will be aggravated in warfare.

In the New Jersey Medical Society Journal, Dr. C. M. Trippe, Asbury Park, states that the chief predisposing causes of mental and behavior disturbances in wartime are the same as in peacetime, that is inheritance of lack of mental and emotional balance and a previous mental or nervous breakdown. Had the medical examiners of the previous war studied the mental and behavior symptoms of recruits as is being done in this war, many thousands of pensioners would have been doing useful work.

To prevent behavior and mental symptoms among those with these tendencies, the preventive measures are play, work, and knowledge, all three of which should be constructively planned for each individual.

It is gratifying to know that our medical examiners today are keeping in mind the mental and emotional condition of the recruit and investigating same insofar as this is possible.

This not only means the saving of the minds of many of these men but saving the country millions, perhaps billions, of dollars.

FOR UNITED FRONT

BUENOS AIRES, April 29 (AP).—The national convention of the Radical party has accepted the Socialist party proposal to form a United front of democratic elements in Argentina in the September Presidential elections. The decision was said to have eliminated the greatest single obstacle to presentation of a strong ticket to oppose President Ramon S. Castillo's Conservatives.

ORGANIZE NEVER-AGAINS

SHEFFIELD, England (CP).—The Earl of Mansfield announced here he hoped to form a branch of the "Never Again" association whose purpose would be to make sure there wasn't another "German world war." He advocated prevention, not revenge.

Daddy was showing his small son round the zoo. After being asked what the lions, tigers, bears, etc., were, the father was getting a little exhausted and his patience was nearly at an end.

They came to the monkey-house, and the little boy said:

"Daddy, what are they?"

"I don't know," replied the father, "but by the look of the sawdust on the floor, they're carpenters."

Hints on Saving Vitamins in Fruits

Buy fruits that you know are fresh, the longer they stay in the markets, the more vitamins are lost . . . The minute you get home, store them in a cool place. When you prepare them for a meal, don't peel or cut them until just before using, so the air won't have much time to destroy the vitamins.

And the same principle goes for orange juice, too. You may think that it is more convenient to squeeze the juice the night before, but the air will play havoc with the vitamins during the night. Make the best of all available fruits, and your family will benefit from the added food value and vitamins you serve with each meal.

Pays Tribute To Canada's War Efforts

LONDON, April 29 (CP).—Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, today sat in the main conference room at the Ministry of Information and traced for [illegible] events the growth of Canada's war effort.

Seated beside Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, Mr. MacDonald told in cold statistics of the contribution the Dominion is making, but he emphasized he was not just paying a tribute to Canada.

"I speak with a great deal of emotion," he said, as he described how people from coast to coast were contributing everything possible toward victory and added that only by visiting the country itself could people form an idea of the Canadian effort.

He praised the Dominion's fighting services and complimented the army on the patience it has shown during the long wait in Britain. They had been held here, he said, "on advice of the highest military authority" and said that when the time came they would "no doubt show qualities as great as any troops in the world."

Heavy Halibut Catches Continue

SEATTLE, April 29 (AP).—Heavy halibut catches continued today as thirteen vessels brought 255,000 pounds of fish to the Seattle Fish Exchange. The catches brought from 19 to 24½ cents a pound, slightly higher than yesterday, but far below the early season's peak of 36½ cents.

Ocean Wave May Win the Derby Despite Favorite, Count Fleet

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Canadian Sports Editor

WOULD you consider us wacky if we suggested that you don't overlook a Wave when you're picking your Kentucky Derby winner—or have you quit sparring around and decided that no horse can counter against Count Fleet?

The Wave we're sandbagging is Ocean Wave, who may engulf the whole Kentucky Derby field at Churchill Downs.

Ocean Wave, you may have heard, is a sleek, speedy colt, sired by the same pappy who fathered Whirlaway, the greatest money-winning horse to hoof it on the nation's tracks. Ocean Wave, you also may have heard, has compiled a pretty impressive record after getting a late start last year and currently is ranked as one of the few horses who may give the great Count Fleet a battle for the $75,000 pot of gold at historic Churchill Downs.

JONES IS TRAINER

And, to help out the Wave's cause, let it be said here and now that Ben Jones, the wizard trainer, who already has saddled two Kentucky Derby winners, is the trainer of the chestnut-coated half-mother of Whirly. Ben Jones led Larwin into the winner's circle at Churchill Downs in 1938 and followed three years later with the great Whirlaway.

Ocean Wave lost some snate earlier this Spring when he was the overwhelming favorite in the New Orleans Handicap and the Louisiana Derby at New Orleans and Hot Springs and then was beaten Amber Light, a front-running speed demon, who also is a respectable Derby candidate, just nipped the Wave by a nose in that one, although some said a wee bit longer distance and the Wave would have caught him.

BEAT NO WRINKLES

Then, in the Arkansas Derby, the Wave again was a big favorite to click. Seven Hearts, the Brown Hotel stable's hope in the Derby, roomed out in front at the start, kept going under the expert handling of Jockey Johnny Adams, and whipped the Wave again.

Since then, however, Ocean Wave has moved to Louisville and in his first start a week ago took the measure of No Wrinkles, a classy colt who is Derby-minded, in a driving photo-finish after No Wrinkles had fronted the Wave to the wire.

Ocean Wave can run on any kind of a track. He had had the benefit of Winter racing, having run up three victories in a row this season at New Orleans prior to having been beaten in New Orleans Handicap.

As a two-year-old last year, Ocean Wave started nine times, winning five and finishing second once, being out of the money only three times. In six starts this year he has been first four times and second twice!

Ocean Wave met Count Fleet once last year, the Count beating him by two lengths. But this was before Ocean Wave really began to run.

Senator Leaves War Labor Board

OTTAWA, April 29 (CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell announced tonight that Senator J. J. Bench, K.C., of St. Catharines, Ont., has resigned from the National War Labor Board and that Leon Lalande, of Montreal, has been appointed to succeed him.

Mr. Mitchell said in a statement that Mr. Bench, who is thirty-seven, had accepted appointment as a member of the board when it was reorganized last February only because of the necessity at that time of a prompt reconstitution of the board to deal with urgent matters then pending.

There was an understanding that, after the disposition of these matters and the choice of a successor, Senator Bench would resign.

SAY JOB FULL-TIME

Mr. Mitchell said the work of the board was now a full-time undertaking for its members, and that it was recognized at the time of the appointment that it would not be possible for Senator Bench to continue on the board indefinitely and also discharge his duties as a member of the Senate as well as maintain his law practice, which is "very closely associated" with many essential war industries.

Mr. Lalande, a graduate in law of the University of Montreal, studied at the School of Commerce and Finance at the University of Detroit. He is a member of the Ontario and Quebec bars, and has practised at Windsor, Ont., and Montreal.

Through his work as solicitor to the ration administration of the Prices Board, he has been connected with the overall policy of wage and price control.

IN SWITZERLAND

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, seventy-five-year-old commander-in-chief of the Finnish army forces, was reported in a Stockholm dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio today to be in Switzerland "for reasons of health." The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, quoted the newspaper Svenka Dagbladet as the source of the dispatch and said that, after terminating his cure, the marshal would return home and resume his duties.

WOULD GO TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—An aide to Senator Edward Robertson (Rep., Wyo.) said today the senator had been advised that 80 per cent of a group of Japanese interviewed at the Hart Mountain relocation centre at Cody, Wyo., favor returning to Japan.

Fighter Planes Fly Oceans to Scene of Action

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—Mass flights of Lightning fighter planes now are spanning the oceans en route to war fronts under their own power, the United States Army reported today, the first such flight having been made by "a number of planes running well into three figures."

Out of all the planes that made the first transoceanic hop only one was lost at sea. Six others made bad-weather landings and were damaged, but their pilots were rescued.

Since then, large numbers of the twin-engined Lockheed Lightnings have been delivered under their own power from the factory in California to the combat zones in Europe and Africa, releasing shipping space for other cargo.

Although the Lightning is a long-range fighter, it can make the transAtlantic hop only by using an extra gasoline supply carried in releasable tanks fastened to the underside of the wings.

Joint Committee

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP).—An agreement between Mexico and the United States to create a joint committee to formulate a programme for economic co-operation after making a study of international payments between the two countries, was announced tonight by the State Department.

The agreement to create an economic committee made up of two representatives from each country, the department said, was a result of the reciprocal visit made by President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho respectively in Mexican and United States territory last week.

The object of the recommendation for measures to regulate and adjust international payments between the two countries was declared to be to insure the stability of Mexican production of strategic material and to prevent a lessening in their quantities.

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP).—Eric A. Johnson, president of the Brown Johnston Company, Spokane, Wash., was re-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today at the closing session of its thirty-first annual convention.

Four Tickets Divide Prize

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 29.—A "kitty" of $80,000 awaited division today among four entries in the annual guessing contest on the day and minute the ice begins to move in the Tanana River.

The ice stopped the automatic clock at Nenana at 7:22 p.m. yesterday. None of the guesses entered in the contest was for the exact time. Three of the winners guessed 7:21 and one listed 7:23.

The tickets of the lucky guessers bore these names: August Juntenen and Marjo Lester, of Anchorage; "Foster Pool," of Juneau; Allen W. Less, Fairbanks, and "21 Men," with a Fairbanks address.

The annual guessing contest is one of the territory's major Winter and Spring indoor sports.

MORE AMBERGRIS

WITH THE UNITED STATES FLEET, South Pacific, April 29 (AP).—War, says an engineer officer, has stepped up production in at least one non-essential field. Whales, he said, are being tickled by submarine soundings into giving off large amounts of ambergris, a valuable stomach secretion used in expensive perfumes. But, the officer added, everybody is too busy fighting to gather it.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

RECRUITS ARE NOW EXAMINED FROM EMOTIONAL AND MENTAL STANDPOINTS

One great improvement of the examination of recruits in this war, as compared with the last, is the X-ray examination of the chest. By this means, previous attacks of bronchitis and even tuberculosis can be detected and the recruit is rejected for overseas service and left to do war or other useful work on the home front. Many of these cases cannot be detected by other methods of examination.

An even greater improvement to the physical examination of recruits over that of the last war is in watching recruits carefully in an effort to detect any nervous, emotional or behavior symptoms that would be aggravated by war activities and thus make a pensioner out of an otherwise useful citizen.

As president of a medical board in the last war I realized too late that not knowing the background of the recruit, we accepted him for service if he had no physical defects and was reasonably intelligent. Many of these men could have told us or their physicians could have told us that they could not stand up emotionally to active warfare. If a man has behavior difficulties in peace time, these difficulties will be aggravated in warfare.

In the New Jersey Medical Society Journal, Dr. C. M. Trippe, Asbury Park, states that the chief predisposing causes of mental and behavior disturbances in wartime are the same as in peacetime, that is inheritance of lack of mental and emotional balance and a previous mental or nervous breakdown. Had the medical examiners of the previous war studied the mental and behavior symptoms of recruits as is being done in this war, many thousands of pensioners would have been doing useful work.

To prevent behavior and mental symptoms among those with these tendencies, the preventive measures are play, work, and knowledge, all three of which should be constructively planned for each individual.

It is gratifying to know that our medical examiners today are keeping in mind the mental and emotional condition of the recruit and investigating same insofar as this is possible.

This not only means the saving of the minds of many of these men but saving the country millions, perhaps billions, of dollars.

FOR UNITED FRONT

BUENOS AIRES, April 29 (AP).—The national convention of the Radical party has accepted the Socialist party proposal to form a United front of democratic elements in Argentina in the September Presidential elections. The decision was said to have eliminated the greatest single obstacle to presentation of a strong ticket to oppose President Ramon S. Castillo's Conservatives.

ORGANIZE NEVER-AGAINS

SHEFFIELD, England (CP).—The Earl of Mansfield announced here he hoped to form a branch of the "Never Again" association, whose purpose would be to make sure there wasn't another "German world war." He advocated prevention, not revenge.

Daddy was showing his small son round the zoo. After being asked what the lions, tigers, bears, etc., were, the father was getting a little exhausted and his patience was nearly at an end.

They came to the monkey-house, and the little boy said:

"Daddy, what are they?"

"I don't know," replied the father, "but by the look of the sawdust on the floor, they're carpenters."

Hints on Saving Vitamins in Fruits

Buy fruits that you know are fresh, the longer they stay in the markets, the more vitamins are lost . . . The minute you get home, store them in a cool place. When you prepare them for a meal, don't peel or cut them until just before using, so that you won't have much time to destroy the vitamins.

And the same principle goes for orange juice, too. You may think that it is more convenient to squeeze the juice the night before, but the air will play havoc with the vitamins during the night . . . Make the best of all available fruits, and your family will benefit from the added food value and vitamins you serve with each meal.
